

Little Chance For Passage of Farm and Wage Bills This Term

Senate Works on Crop Bill; House Busy on Pay-Hour Plan

CONFABS NEEDED Differences Between Measures Must be Ironed Out

Washington—(U)—The senate refused today to substitute a domestic allotment cotton program for the compulsory cotton section of the ever-normal granary bill.

It rejected a substitute offered by Lee (D-Okla.) in a roll call vote, 56 to 26.

Washington—(U)—William Green, adding to the general congressional confusion, asked the house today to send its wages and hours bill back to the committee.

The president of the American Federation of Labor sent telegrams to all representatives saying the pending bill was "highly objectionable" to the membership of his organization.

He asked its return to committee "for revision, study and necessary changes in order to make it a practical and constructive measure."

The house yesterday rejected a substitute bill supported by the A.F. of L. by a 162 to 131 ballot.

Washington—(U)—Administration leaders in congress tried hard today to complete the writing of farm and wages and hours bills, but Speaker Bankhead said there was little chance either would reach the White House before the special session ends next week.

The speaker said he was informed the senate hoped to pass its crop control bill within a few days. The house is struggling over a wages and hours measure.

Passage of the farm bill by the senate and of the labor bill by the house, however, must be followed by conferences between committees of the two houses to compose differences in their bills.

A new attempt to discard the administration-backed wage-hour bill in favor of an entirely different measure plunged the house into heated debate immediately after it convened at noon, emphasizing Bankhead's pessimism.

Offers Substitute

Representative Latta (D-Ohio) offered the substitute. It would empower the federal trade commission to declare employment of workers under "substandard" labor conditions an unfair method of competition.

The administration's measure would place administration of wages and hours standards in the hands of a special five-man board. Another proposal, on which the house has yet to vote, would place control in the labor department.

The senate, meanwhile, debated a substitute by Senator Lee (D-Okla.) for the cotton control provisions of its pending farm bill.

Neither bill can be sent to the White House before the special session ends Dec. 22 unless there is almost unprecedented speed in conference negotiations between senate and house, but the floor managers still were trying.

House Leaders, Successful in Warding off the first of several suggested substitutes for the wage-hour bill, said "the worst is over."

The vote which encouraged them was a 162 to 131 rejection of the American Federation of Labor's proposal.

A. F. of L. Proposal

That measure, offered by Representative Griswold (D-Ind.), would have written into the law a maximum work week of 40 hours and minimum wages of 40 cents an hour for all industries in interstate commerce.

The committee bill would leave setting of the standards to an administrator in the labor department acting on the recommendations of investigating committees for each industry.

Besides the other proposed substitutes, there was a movement—acknowledged to be strong—to send the bill back to the labor committee for revision. Both Democratic Leader Rayburn and Democratic

URGES GOOD HOMES

Sheboygan—(U)—There is no excuse for bad housing in a country as rich as the United States, Paul E. Stark of Madison, president of the National Real Estate board, asserted in an address here last night.

"Bad housing—and there is no excuse for it in this the richest country in the world—is responsible for squalor, disease and delinquency," he said.

Power Company Deal for Hydro Plant Approved

$2,350,000 Will be Paid For Generating Stations Of Northern Mills

The Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant has received official approval for the purchase of two additional hydro-electric generating plants and additional power lines at a cost of $2,350,000 from the Northern Paper Mills of Green Bay, according to W. E. Schubert, general manager.

The plants are located on the Michigan side of the Menominee river, 30 miles north of Menominee, Mich. Included in the purchase are 60 miles of steel tower transmission lines and three miles of wood pole lines.

Before purchase and transfer could be made, it was necessary for the company to obtain acquisition approval from the Wisconsin Public Service commission, Federal Power commission and approval for issuing of financing securities from the state and federal bodies, the Michigan Public Utilities commission and the Securities and Exchange commission.

Known as the Chalk Hill and White Rapids plants, each is equipped with three generator units. The plants are about 11 years old and the dams extending across the river to the Wisconsin side are of the conventional gravity type with gates controlled by electric hoisting machinery.

During the last 10 years the Wisconsin Michigan Power company has purchased the entire output of the Chalk Hill plant and a small portion of the dump power from the White Rapids plant under a contract which expired this year.

The purchase includes plants, flowage lands, lines, rights-of-way and substations.

Shots Fired in Scuffle Between Workers, Union

Kansas City—(U)—Police Sergeant D. E. Reddish said wild shots were fired during a brief scuffle today between a couple of Ford workers and some union men—a block from the Ford assembly plant.

"We were not able to determine who fired the shots and no one was wounded," said Reddish, who has charge of the strike squad at the plant where the United Automobile Workers of America called a strike last Friday.

Six men and a woman were detained for questioning but later released.

More than 300 pickets have been arrested since the strike was called.

Falsified American Passports Lead To Hunt for Spies in Soviet Russia

Moscow—(U)—The government newspaper Izvestia announced today that soviet authorities were searching for a couple posing as "Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson of New York."

This Izvestia asserted, indicated the man and woman were suspected of spying.

(Federal agents in New York investigating for the United States state department the issuance of falsified American passports to the "Robinsons" pursued a theory the couple were espionage agents allied with an American communist group opposed to the present regime in Russia.)

The self-styled New York writer and his wife vanished last week from a Moscow hotel.

Referring to the New York investigation, Izvestia said:

"The declaration of the state department leaves little doubt we are dealing with some kind of suspicious persons who attempted to pose as Americans."

"Attention is drawn to the fact that American Trotskyists are con-

A modern, expensive bridge lamp of the semi-indirect type, a handsome automatic Silex coffee maker, and two sets of waterproof Christmas bulbs, eight to a set, are the three prizes which will be awarded in each of the four divisions of the Post-Crescent Christmas Home Lighting Contest.

On page 12 of this edition you'll find an entry blank for the contest. The blank should be mailed to the Home Lighting Editor, Post-Crescent, by midnight, Sunday. Lights will go on Monday night and the judges will do their inspecting all of next week.

Five judges, three women and two men, have been appointed for the contest. They are Mrs. Chris E. Mullen, route 3; Mrs. John Engel, Jr., 1315 W. Eighth street; Russel Spoor, 1334 W. Pine; Arthur H. Benson, 1920 N. Appleton street; Andrew J. Mueller, 902 W. Commercial street.

They will mark the displays on the basis of 20 points, considering artists' originality, effectiveness and other aspects related purely to the appearance. Louis Lucke, city electrician, will inspect the displays for safety, rating them on a basis of 20 points.

The prizes, which represent a total outlay of $100, will be presented after Christmas.

The lamps are of the latest design, handsome and practical. The automatic coffee makers will be welcomed by any housewife for their good looks and for the quality of the coffee which they produce. And next year's outdoor display will be made a lot easier for those who win the two sets of Christmas decorations.

But the winning of prizes is not the only aim for entering the contest. Each contestant who makes an effort to decorate his home during the holidays contributes to the general attractiveness of Appleton and shares the community's pride in the beauty of the city's residential districts. Appleton can make a name for itself by taking on a brilliant holiday attire and bring visitors from other cities here to see the displays.

Lights on the outdoor displays, which will range from simple wreaths to electric dramatizations of the Christmas legend or of Santa and his reindeer touring the countryside, will go on Monday night and kept on each night of next week. There will be particular evenings designated for judging. The judges will make their inspections any or all nights, so it is important that the displays be lighted throughout the week.

Two CIO Leaders Held In Telegraph Dispute Committee Backs Housing Measure

New York—(U)—Two CIO leaders organizing a strike of Postal Telegraph operators today were taken into custody by police on a complaint of "malicious mischief" as the company's service in seven cities was disrupted.

The leaders were Willard Bliss, national director of the American Radio Telegraphists' association, and Joseph Selly, an organizer.

Both were taken from a "stand-up meeting" in the Postal Telegraph company building at 20 Broad street where union officials said 450 employees were assembled.

The "stand-up" was called in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Milwaukee.

Mervyn Rathbone, international president of the union, said the action was not a strike, and that no strike had been authorized by the parent body, but that the "stand-up" was merely a temporary demonstration against delay by the company in negotiations with the union for higher pay and a short work-week.

Eight Persons Burned In Series of Blasts

Chicago—(U)—Seven young women and a man were burned seriously early today at the Superior Match company plant when a fire swept through the second floor after a series of explosions.

The victims, all employees of the company, located on the near north side, fled to the street with clothing ablaze. Two of them were seriously burned.

The fire started in the assembly room where sheets of paraffin impregnated cardboard, tipped with match heads, were being cut into small packets.

Friction from the cutting machine ignited one of the matches and almost immediately sheets of matches exploded and the entire floor burst into flames. The women's screams were heard above the noise of the explosions and crashing partition walls.

The damage was estimated by firemen at more than $50,000.

Senate Group Maps Plan to Help Business

Outlines 10-Point Program To Promote Industrial Recovery

SEE MORE SPENDING Strong Support in Congress for Additional Expenditures

Washington—(U)—Senator Bailey (D-N. C.) said today he was one of the authors and the final editor of the statement which has been circulated in the senate proposing a 10-point recovery program.

The North Carolina senator quickly acknowledged participation in drafting the document which was headed "An Address to the People of the United States."

He said several other senators had joined him and had hoped it would be agreed to by senators and the public generally, as a program to restore confidence.

During the day a survey showed that strong support had developed in congress for resumption of government spending on a modified scale in an attempt to spur business activity.

Some anti-administration senators as well as some Roosevelt supporters said they believed new spending must start in January or February, but there was a difference of opinion as to whether it should be of the "pump priming" type.

Lists 10 Steps

The 10 recovery steps suggested in the letter Bailey helped draft were revisions of business taxes, approach toward a balanced budget, "just relations between capital and labor," reliance on profitable investment of private savings, recognition of the profit motive and superiority of the competitive system, assurance of the safety of collateral reduction in the general tax burden, maintenance of state's rights, economical and non-political distribution of relief, and preservation of the American system of private enterprise.

There was a general feeling in the senate, Bailey said, that there ought to be an understanding between each other on what should be done about the business recession.

Lewis Flays Operators of 'Little Steel'

Tells Steel Workers Dream of Mill Unionism 'Has Come True'

CIO CHIEF CHEERED 'This Union Founded Upon the Blood of Man,' He Asserts

Pittsburgh—(U)—John L. Lewis denounced operators of "Little Steel" today and told an uproarious convention of steel workers that his dream of seeing the nation's mill men "banded together" in unionism "has come true."

The founder of the CIO, welcomed amid a wild demonstration to the floor of first national congress of S. W. O. C., assailed Tom Girdler, president of the Republic Steel corporation, declaring that the name of Girdler "should be synonymous with murder."

The shaggy-haired labor leader took the platform after a delay of 20 minutes by the ovation, and then declared:

"You have found out for the first time in your respective lives that you could organize if you wanted to organize."

Turning suddenly to speak of the steel operators, and the strike in "Little Steel" companies last year, he went on:

"The name of Girdler should be synonymous with that terrible word, 'murder,' because Girdler murdered our members."

Can't Destroy Union

"This union, like the Christian church, is founded upon the blood of man."

"No one need have any fear that a Weir or a Grace is going to destroy this union in the future."

"No one need have any fear that a murderer like Girdler can destroy this union because it cannot be destroyed by murdering its members."

"Labor in America can do what it wants to do. The public is being told what you are thinking about and your voice is heard for the first time."

Before Lewis spoke, delegates paraded around the convention floor with raised banners. An effigy of Girdler was hurled from a balcony and swung by a rope above the heads of the marchers. The crowd stopped cheering and burst into a parody, "We'll hang Tom Girdler from a sour apple tree."

Cap Board Decisions

Resolutions adopted yesterday included one which endorsed the Wagner labor act but denounced recent decisions of the labor board which permitted craft unions to bargain collectively in plants where the CIO had been declared the exclusive bargaining agency.

Other resolutions endorsed the six-hour day, 30-hour week; a billion dollar appropriation by congress for continuation of work by the PWA and WPA; labor's non-partisan league; firm adherence to contracts; a federal anti-lynch law; boycott of Japanese manufactured goods and a five billion dollar federal housing program.

Glaze Disappears From Highways

Milder Weather Improves Traffic Conditions in Middle West

Chicago—(U)—Normal temperatures throughout the middle west today melted much of the glaze of ice on highways and sidewalks and relieved traffic conditions responsible for scores of injuries yesterday.

The only glazing reported today by the government weather bureau was at Houghton lake, in the northern part of the lower Michigan peninsula. The forecast for the next two days included above normal temperatures in the north central states, with rain in the southeast likely to spread northward.

Temperatures were higher over almost the entire country. The lowest reading reported last night was 10 degrees above zero at Lander, Wyo.

New York—(U)—Sleet, rain and snow coated eastern states with ice and slush today, slowing traffic and causing numerous accidents.

At least five persons were killed and many others injured in falls and automobile accidents on Pennsylvania highways where falling temperatures increased hazards of snow and rain.

The metropolitan New York area experienced what the weather bureau described as the "first real sleet storm" of the winter.

Update New York was covered generally with snow and melting ice.

Thirtenth Baby Dies Of Mysterious Malady

Chicago—(U)—Baby Jerome Jarosz died in St. Elizabeth's hospital today, the thirteenth victim of a strange intestinal malady which appeared in the infants' ward late in November.

Dr. Herman M. Bundesen, health commissioner, said "everything possible" was being done for three other infants who remained in the hospital, two in "somewhat improved" condition.

Scientists are experimenting with monkeys in search of a cure for the disease, diagnosed as a form of diarrhea.

Japanese Surface Boats Fired on Panay After Bombing, Hull Reports

Tokio Removes Rear Admiral of Post Because of Attack

STRIKE CONTINUES

Shanghai—(U)—Rear Admiral Teizo Mitsunami, chief of Japanese naval aerial operations, was relieved of his post today as a result of the bombing of the United States gunboat Panay.

Domei (Japanese news agency), which carried the announcement of his removal, declared the Japanese government was acting swiftly to carry out its pledge to America to punish officers responsible for the attack.

It was explained that Mitsunami was recalled because most bombardments in China had been carried out by naval planes.

The rear admiral was ordered to go to Tokio, but Japanese authorities here did not know what other action he faced.

During the day Japanese army planes carried the warfare into the interior with a series of attacks. Three columns of Japanese troops advanced northward from a point between Shanghai and Nanking entered heretofore quiet countryside.

Rich Towns Menaced

One column advancing along the ancient Grand canal threatened a number of rich, populous towns.

Foreign military and naval observers in Shanghai said they believed the Panay bombing and other attacks may have been made by young officers who had disregarded efforts of commanders to control their actions.

A miniature fleet of American and British naval vessels bearing the three dead and most of the survivors of the Panay incident was expected to reach Shanghai some time tomorrow. The boat spent last night at anchor on the mine-strewn Yangtze and were to anchor again tonight.

Plan Triumphant Entry

Japanese forces, meanwhile, planned a formal triumphal entry into fallen Nanking for tomorrow afternoon, while other Japanese columns continued their push into the interior. Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa was to lead naval forces in a parade.

Japanese officials announced the American embassy building and other embassy and legation headquarters at Nanking were not damaged in the siege of the city. All Americans and foreigners who remained there were reported safe.

First American report on conditions at Nanking was received from Arthur Menken, Paramount newsreel camera man who went through the siege.

Menken, wireless from the American gunboat Oahu that "Nanking is a shambles."

"Except for the efforts of three American missionaries," he said, "the wounded were not cared for." He referred to Miss Ivy Hynds, Los Angeles; Dr. C. S. Trimmer, Long Valley, N. J., and Dr. Robert O. Wilson, Santee, Calif.

Menken's body was found by his wife, Ella, lying on the dining room floor of the Mikich flat. It was Mrs. Lemmer who made the discovery. She had not seen her husband since noon yesterday, said detectives, and she had gone out to look for him.

Police said Lemmer apparently collapsed while seated in a chair. They said there were bruises on his forehead and nose, apparently from falling to the floor.

Youth Facing Second Charge as Aunt Dies

Salem, Mass.—(U)—Police brought Oliver Alden Thayer, 24, to court today for the second time in 24 hours to be arraigned on a charge of murdering his 72-year-old aunt, Miss Alice R. Thayer.

Some 20 hours after the charge struck her in the head in the Thayers' colonial home at Topsfield.

The former college student pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of murdering his sister Katherine, 32. On that charge he was ordered held without bail in Salem jail.

State Police Corporal Arthur T. O'Leary, who signed the murder warrants, said Thayer confessed both shootings and claimed he fired because he "couldn't stand" what he described as the two women's "constant nagging" of his parents.

Youth Pleads Guilty Of Killing Ohio Girl

Elyria, O.—(U)—Alexander Maneff, 21-year-old West Homestead, Pa. hitch-hiker, entered a plea of guilty today to first degree murder in the sex slaying of pretty Louise Hornbeck, 19, of nearby Grafton.

Common pleas Judge D. A. Cook announced that three judges would hear evidence to determine the penalty, as provided under Ohio law.

Maneff was arrested near Wooster several days after Miss Hornbeck's body was found near her home Oct. 18. The girl, employed in a dentist's office, started for home after working until 9 p. m. An all night search produced her battered and ravished body a short distance from her home.

Judge Cook indicated the case would be heard early in January.

Alabama's Prison Gates Opened for Holiday 'Vacation'

Montgomery, Ala.—(U)—Alabama's annual test of the honor of its convicts began today.

Prison gates swung open for the first of 534 prisoners, including 50 women, who were granted the coveted privilege of a two weeks parole by Governor Bibb Graves as a Christmas present upon their promise to return.

Unmolested by officers, the convicts are free to return to their homes, even beyond the borders of the state.

The custom of Christmas parades on a "man-to-man" agreement was started by Gov. Graves when he was first elected 10 years ago, as an incentive to good behavior.

"We are hopeful that every one will return this Christmas," said Hann Draper, chief of the state convict department. "Last year seven failed to report on time or had to be brought in."

Gas Kills Three; Fourth Victim in Critical Condition

Milwaukee Police Start Probe of Tragedy In Duplex

Milwaukee—(U)—Three persons were found dead and a fourth was near death from illuminating gas in a duplex today.

The bodies were found by the wife of one of the victims when she went out to look for her husband. The dead:

Anton Miklich, 70, owner of the duplex at 136 E. Orchard street, who occupied the first floor; Mrs. Mary Starich, 41, residing on the second floor with her husband, Joseph; Fred Lemmer, 52.

The man in a critical condition is Charles Miklich, 38, son of one of the victims.

Police launched an investigation. Detective Sergeant Louis Duden ordered two men taken to the detective bureau for questioning, although he said preliminary investigation indicated the deaths were accidental.

Steve Jet Open

The gas, noticeable outside the building when police arrived, came from the stove in the Starich kitchen. One jet was open. The body of Mrs. Starich was near the sink. The elder Miklich and his son were in their bedrooms.

Lemmer's body was found by his wife, Ella, lying on the dining room floor of the Miklich flat. It was Mrs. Lemmer who made the discovery. She had not seen her husband since noon yesterday, said detectives, and she had gone out to look for him.

Police said Lemmer apparently collapsed while seated in a chair. They said there were bruises on his forehead and nose, apparently from falling to the floor.

Oil Trial Recess Is Ordered Until After Christmas

Conspiracy Case to be Re-summed Dec. 28. at Madison

Madison — (4) — Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone recessed the federal government's gasoline price-fixing case today until Dec. 28, following the death of Mrs. Stone's mother, Mrs. Louis Dessert, at Wausau this morning.

Judge Stone had planned to begin the Christmas recess tomorrow. The defense is in the midst of its presentation of evidence and will resume with Dr. John W. Frey, associate director of the petroleum conservation division at Washington, on the stand.

The jury, which has been in custody of the marshal since the trial began Oct. 4, will remain "locked up" during the recess. The 14 jurors — including two alternates — are quartered at a hotel.

No "Definite" Approval
A statement the major oil companies' buying activities in 1935 were not "definitely" approved by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes or the petroleum administration board was given the jury late yesterday.

Dr. Frey, former University of Wisconsin geologist, gave this testimony during cross-examination by a government prosecutor. The witness said he had been a member of the petroleum board during NRA code days.

Dr. Frey had testified as a defense witness that the board received no approval from Charles Arnot, Secretary of the Interior, an oral report on major company purchases of independent refiners' gasoline through the tank car stabilization committee. Dr. Frey said Arnot, whom he called "chief stabilizer," had named this committee under authority of a letter sent to him by Secretary Ickes.

Conspiracy Charge
The government contends the buying program was part of a conspiracy to raise and peg prices, while the defense asserts the companies' activities had administrative approval.

Questioned by Judge Stone, Dr. Frey said he thought the petroleum board did approve of the activities although he said he did not know whether the board really had any authority to give approval. His work was done informally, he said.

In cross-examination, Dr. Frey confirmed the government contention that Arnot told the board he was conducting buying activities on his own authority, that Arnot did not ask board approval and said he did not want the board's "blessing."

Dr. Frey also said he had told other persons that the buying activities were "unofficial."

Farmers May File Petitions for Soil Conservation Aid

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Outagamie county farmers who are interested in organizing soil conservation districts under the new 1937 Wisconsin soil conservation act may forward their petitions to the state committee, organized yesterday, it has been announced.

Petitions should be addressed to Herbert H. Erdmann of the department of agricultural economics at the state university who has been named secretary of the soil conservation committee which is headed by Noble Clark, assistant director of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station.

Members of the committee, created by the legislature a few months ago, are Clark, Paul Weiss, Barnum, secretary, George Nygaard, Chas. G. and Warren V. Clark, associate director of the agricultural extension service in Wisconsin.

Under the soil conservation law farmers anywhere may organize conservation districts for the purpose of taking community action in dealing with the soil erosion problem. A district may be organized at

To make sure that the watchman at the American embassy was not executed for having arms, McDaniel took away his pistol and made him stay inside. This probably saved his life.

We first learned of the Panay's sinking from a young Japanese lieutenant on the gunboat Seta. After Nanking's fall we had gone to the river side to request the Japanese to radio the Panay and ask it to return to Nanking.

The lieutenant answered: "Oh, no, sorry, Panay sunk."

Unbelieving, we heard him repeat that the gunboat had gone down.

He could give no details. We advised other Americans and foreigners of the Panay sinking but did not tell the embassy's Chinese staff, not wanting to terrify them.

During the final days of the siege we saw no Chinese planes in the Farm Federation For Policies It Voted Last Spring

Chicago — (17) — Commitment of the American Farm Bureau Federation to continued support of the policies advocated last spring occupied the attention today of departing delegates to the organization's annual meeting.

The convention voted down the opposition of a determined New York state group yesterday in adopting a resolution which maintained that recommendations made to the senate and house agricultural committee last May, gave farmers an opportunity for effective control of surpluses while assuring the nation ample supplies of farm products.

Practically all of the recommendations are included in farm legislation now pending in congress.

The New York delegates asserted members in their state opposed crop control. C. C. Dumond of Ulster, N. Y., added that he believed the federation "is becoming too involved in politics."

Little Support
The opposition mustered little support, however, in a voice vote. The farm policy resolution was the only one among 21 presented that aroused protracted debate. Its demands included an agricultural tariff, reduction of "excessive industrial tariffs," and efforts to develop new domestic and foreign markets.

Other resolutions criticized the government's part in rural electrification, opposed legislation which might cause an increase in freight rates, asked action to end monopolistic practices in industry and labor and to eliminate speculation, sought "complete exemption" of agriculture from the national labor relations act, and advocated continuation of the present interest rates on federal land bank and commission loans.

Edward A. O'Neal was reelected president for his fourth two-year term. New directors chosen were H. H. Nuttle, Danton, Md., Ransom Aldrich, Michigan City, Miss., Hassel Schenck, Lebanon, Ind., and George Ogilvie, Lee, Nev.

Spanish Armies In New Clashes

Also Fighting Snow and Cold in Northeastern
Part of Country

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border
— Far-flung warfare in which rival armies struggled with each other and against cold and drifting snow was reported today from northeastern Spain.

Insurgent communiques confirmed previous reports of a strong government offensive against Teruel, southern tip of the 200-mile Aragon front, but insurgency and government sources disagreed on its success.

"Brilliantly repulsed" was the comment from Salamanca. A Barcelona report asserted government troops "carried through various offensives to full success." The readjustment in lines, if any, was not disclosed.

One dispatch said Generalissimo Francisco Franco launched an attack in the vicinity of Almeria, southeastern Mediterranean port held by the government, and at the same time ordered insurgent troops into action near Puebla de Almoron and Mediana, about 15 miles south of Zaragoza.

Only Two State Chairmen Placed On Policy Group

Work of Selecting Committee 'Virtually Completed,' Report

St. Louis — (4) — Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican National committee disclosed today the committee being selected here to draft a new declaration of party principles will include only two state Republican chairmen.

And insofar as I know none of our country chairmen nor any of the 106,000 precinct committeemen has been recommended or carried into the final list of the committee," he declared.

This statement reflected the earlier "blanket embargo" placed on present office holders, elected or appointed, as members of the steering committee.

Hamilton said the work of selecting the policy group was "virtually completed." As the party's executive committee reconvened today the national chairman explained final agreements on "a few remaining names" still were to be reached.

Prolonged Sessions
Several members of the executive group expressed hope of adjourning today. The conference opened Monday and has gone into extended sessions each night.

It was stated authoritatively that agreement had been reached as to the chairman of the steering committee. His identity, however, was a closely guarded secret pending word he would accept the post.

It was generally understood the selection was agreeable to followers of both former President Hoover and Alf M. Landon. 1936 presidential nominee. The spokesman declared he will be "of such standing to command instant respect."

The leaders were quick to refute stories of differences over the chairmanship between the friends of Hoover and Landon.

The chairmen will head a committee of approximately 150 men and women outstanding in nine broad classifications.

These nine groups were set up to furnish the policy committee with experts who not only could draft new principles but give a definite answer to party and national problems.

The question comprised temporarily by the Chicago convention steering committee plan—whether or not the G. O. P. would hold a mid-term convention — remained unanswered.

The work will be done under the WPA and 18-inch concrete pipe will be used.

American Patrol in Chinese Waters Often Under Fire in Last 67 Years

Washington — (4) — That little section of the American navy operating in Chinese waters, naval officials said today, probably has been under fire more frequently in the last 67 years than any other squadron.

Ever since 1870, they said, the story of the Yangtze river patrol and the South China patrol has been studded with deeds of heroism, struggles with floods, and gun battles with bandits and rioters.

The Panay, bombed Sunday by Japanese aviators, was the first of the force to be sunk by a foreign power.

Activities of the last decade, however, were highlighted by riots in 1927 and bandit attacks in 1930-31.

In the earlier year, the patrol spent two months evacuating Americans and other foreigners from Hankow and other up-river cities. It had to call for reinforcements from the Asiatic fleet for a battle with rioting nationalist troops at Nanking.

During the eight-month period beginning in July, 1930, there were 37 bandit attacks on the patrol and 37 additional attacks on American guards stationed on commercial vessels.

The patrol was established by treaty to protect American lives and property, and to keep the stream of commerce open.

Old vessels which comprised the squadron, some of them gunboats seized from Spain in 1898, were replaced by six new gunboats in 1928.

They are small ships, with four or five officers and fewer than 60 men on each. The skippers operate under the general order to "do what the situation demands."

Fellow officers here said Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, present Yangtze patrol commander, had an outstanding service record, a level head, a sociable disposition, and was generally "the man for the job."

The Americans a 1 wasayeh-o-Z. The Americans always have operated under orders never to fire unless fired on.

Buckman Inquiry Brings 2 Actions by Commission

Madison — (7) — The public service commission announced today two actions resulting from investigation of the B. E. Buckman and company, suspended Madison investment firm.

It withdrew its approval for sale in Wisconsin of securities issued by the Gulf Coast Water Co., Bay City, Texas, which had been handled by the Buckman firm, and issued a new order requiring licensed investment companies to file financial statements.

Letters requiring a financial statement were enclosed with application forms for 1938 licenses sent out to all dealers and brokers. Gulf Coast securities withdrawn from the registration list were $700,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds and 30,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock.

The commission said it suspended sale of these securities because the Buckman company "presently finds itself in financial difficulties, the consequences of which cannot now be foreseen."

The coffee tree is believed to have developed originally in Ethiopia.

Dry Cleaning at Home Responsible For Many Deaths

Fluids May Cause Fire, Give Off Toxic Fumes, Society Warns

Madison—"Dry clean outside if you value your life," declared the Wisconsin State Medical society in its health bulletin today.

"The practice of dry cleaning clothes in the home is a dangerous one and has been responsible for many tragic deaths. The chief cause for these fatalities is the use of inflammable cleaning fluids. When such fluids are used in home dry cleaning, two dangers are inherent. First, the danger of fire, and second, poisoning by the toxic fumes which are inhaled. Housewives, in their effort to economize on their cleaning bills, overlook these dangers and expose themselves to extensive injuries.

"During the winter months, when the house is closed for warmth, the hazard of explosion and ignition of the dry cleaning fluid is amplified. When fumes from the fluid reach open burners, pilot lights or gas nearby, it is encircled in flame. Extensive bodily result.

"Friction caused by rubbing the garments together will also ignite the fumes. Dry cleaning fluids have a low ignition point, and when garments are rubbed together, a fire may be started easily.

"In the event a fire is started, igniting your clothing, roll up in a blanket or a rug to smother the flames. After the fire is extinguished, the next thought is to obtain relief from burns encountered. It must be remembered at this time that home treatment is not to be followed, as neglect in securing proper treatment, may result in permanent bodily injury. Competent medical attention should be sought at once as the burns are very often so severe that fatality will result if correct treatment is not instituted.

"If it is necessary for you to do your dry cleaning at home: Do it out-of-doors, preferably on a day when there is some wind to carry the vapors away: Use a non-flammable fluid (products advertised as non-explosive may still be flammable); Keep your hands out of the solvent by using a handtype suction washer; Dry the garments outside the house; Keep children and pets away."

Americans Find It Difficult to Leave War Zone

Not Easy to Abandon Possessions and Transfer Effects in Few Weeks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—What are Americans doing in a danger zone in China, anyway? What are the American gunboats doing in Chinese rivers? And why haven't the American naval and marine forces been withdrawn by this time?

These questions are being asked again and again by a curious citizenry in America who have come to feel that, if there were no Americans in the Far East, there would be no crises with Japan or any other power and no complications that might lead to grave situations between the United States and foreign governments.

The president of the United States has, of course, appealed to all Americans to withdraw from China, but this is a far different thing from their right to stay there and do business.

There are about 6,000 Americans in China out of the 11,000 who were there when the hostilities began. Of those now in China, about 2,500 are missionaries and about 3,500 Americans engaged in various business and professional pursuits such as manufacturing, banking, medicine, etc. Most of the families of Americans have gone, but some women and children remain. It isn't easy to pull up stakes in a few weeks, abandon possessions, and transfer effects after having spent many years in a country. Not all have the necessary funds, too, to stand some of the heavy expenses involved, so naturally there has been delay in getting arrangements of this kind consummated.

No passports, of course, are being granted to permit any more Americans to go to China and there is no tourist travel permitted near the war zones. But the plight of the Americans who have had to remain behind has not been of their making. For generations it has been supposed that Japan was a civilized nation and that respect for the rights of foreigners was as sacred to the Japanese as it is to the American or British or French peoples.

Helpless Americans

Back home in America, where many people are very comfortable and can protect themselves easily against being forced out of their homes in economic or physical disasters, there is doubtless little realization of how helpless these Americans in the Far East really are. They cannot run off to some relatives nearby or take a train to another city. They must get out of interior points for the most part by boat. The American gunboat Panay was in the act of taking Americans from the Nanking area. The Japanese may be in a great hurry to wipe out the Chinese, but there is no special urgency about their wiping out the foreigners who have had to remain behind.

Just what happened with respect to the sinking of the Panay will be determined, no doubt, by official inquiry, but authentic reports say the American gunboat was plainly marked with the American flag painted on her decks. Some reports have it that the Japanese opened machine gun fire from Launches. This would mean that the Japanese commanders were determined to drive out the American naval forces from Chinese waters.

The Japanese military chiefs in China have been rather indifferent to cries of international law and treaty rights. The Tokio foreign office today has somewhat the same role as the German foreign office in 1915. The German admiralty torpedoed American ships and the foreign office and ambassadors did the apologizing. It's a regular technique in wartime which the Japanese have copied directly from the Germans, indeed the Japanese reveal that they believe in the German philosophy of war days, namely action first and explanations and apologies afterwards.

There is no need, however, for the American people to become fearful that actual war is the only way to bring Japan to an understanding of how wrong her course happens to be. There are many measures short of war which can be taken. The important thing at the moment is whether Great Britain and the United States, acting together, can make the Japanese militarists understand that respect for the rights of foreigners is absolutely imperative.

No "Declared War"

Strictly speaking, there has been no "declared war" as between Japan and China, so the Japanese have no legal right on earth to be bombing American vessels of any kind, naval or passenger. The people of the United States accord courtesies to thousands of Japanese in the Philippines, Hawaii and continental United States. If the Japanese government cannot see that Americans are treated with respect so that they are permitted to do business in areas of the world which the Japanese control or dominate, then it is in order for Japanese to be asked to cease doing business within the confines of the United States government and to go back to Japan.

The whole story of international law and courtesy is a reciprocal one. If Americans cannot any longer pursue their businesses and professions in the Far East, there is no reason why Japanese should not be asked to leave American territory and go back to Japan or to some other foreign country.

This is but one of the steps that can be considered as a means of getting respect for treaty rights. Either Japan prefers the course of barbarism and a disregard of international law and treaty rights, or she prefers to be counted in the family of civilized nations with a government whose word once given can be respected. Japanese military and naval commanders have made a scrap of paper of the many

OUR ATTITUDE TOWARD JAPAN

The general attitude so far employed by the American government toward Japan by reason of the Panay incident is to be commended and supported.

Washington is not going to accept these outrages, however, unintentional from the standpoint of the Japanese government, as though they may be apologized and paid for like so much merchandise.

The thing is altogether too serious and solemn. No denial is made by Japan but that the Americans involved did their utmost to avoid just such a misadventure. The American flag was carried in a conspicuous position floating from the masthead. Another American flag was as conspicuously painted on the top deck so that aviators might be warned. True it is, of course, that some combatants sail under false colors to deceive the enemy. All the more reason why the enemy must have his wits sharpened to ascertain the truth.

Every army has a registry of all boats navigating all the waters of the world. To the trained eye it is next to impossible to so camouflage a boat as to conceal its true identity. The attacker, anyway, is under the burden of knowing that the boat attacked is enemy property.

It is to be hoped that the government at Washington will move slowly in accepting apologies, settlements or guarantees. They must all be examined with critical eye and Japan must know the American attitude—that repeated acts of carelessness or a constantly reckless policy is sometimes considered tantamount to willfulness.

THE TORIES ARE CHEERING

It is interesting to note the attitude of a rock-ribbed conservative paper like the Wall Street Journal in relation to the Wage-Hour bill. The Journal states the proposition in this way:

"What is the problem which we are trying to solve by means of wage-hour legislation? It is, in essence, to prevent human labor from being compelled, in order to live at all, to accept sub-human living conditions created by long hours of work and insufficient wages."

The Journal has too much intellect not to appreciate that its statement of the case is as sweet a political come-on as could be spread around in the confusion of American politics.

True, Mr. Green's bill for the American Federation of Labor aims at the proposition set up by the Journal. But that is not the aim nor the outcome under the administration bill.

The purpose of the Administration is to save the great manufacturing cities from their own sins of extravagance which are now forcing industries out of their borders. The administration did not stop at making a minimum wage or creating minimum hours. It sought to divide the country up into districts and it created a board authorized like a Nero to enrich or ravish any community by the scale of wages it forced for that community.

The concern of eastern business interests in Mr. Roosevelt's revolutionary bill shows how clearly they understand its effect whatever may be said about its purpose. It was these very same interests that successfully combined to destroy the St. Lawrence waterway although the passage of such a measure was but an improvement of nature in giving the great central west a more open way to the sea. The very thought of taking commerce away from Boston and New York, Norfolk and Savannah curdled the blood of the senators who withheld their assent to the Canadian treaty.

This is the strangest, indeed, the queerest, administration America has ever had. It is a chameleon changing its color with the rising and setting of the sun. It spurs drastic alterations in property laws and the next day it calls a special session of congress to nail down all the business it can to the Atlantic seaboard which had to be traversed by the pioneers first in order to get further.

But to support this measure Mr. Roosevelt need denounce no one as Tory. Every Tory in the East is behind him.

TEN MILLIONS FOR LIGHT

Alfred P. Sloan, Chairman of General Motors, has presented 10 million dollars to a Foundation to be spent for a peculiar purpose. Quoting from Mr. Sloan's statement that purpose is:

"The promotion of a wider knowledge of basic economic truths generally accepted as such by authorities of recognized standing and as demonstrated by experience, as well as a better understanding of economic problems in which we are today so greatly involved and as to which we are so importantly concerned."

Did it never occur to Mr. Sloan that under the Abundant Life, all he need do to save this 10 million is to call in a Brain Trust?

THE ROBINSONS GET A PASSPORT

The mystery surrounding the Robinsons, an alleged American couple, at Moscow shows how comparatively simple it is for crooks or impostors to obtain passports from this government of ours under the prevailing system.

The Robinsons merely selected a quiet cemetery in New York and meandered through it. They were looking for tombstones of children who, had they lived, would have been about their own age. They found that Donald L. Robinson suited their case quite nicely. So they adopted his name although he had died in infancy.

Thus it was simple for them to go to the county authorities and obtain a certificate to the effect that Donald L. Robinson was an American citizen born at such a time at such a place. With such a certificate of noble American birth one could attach his present day photograph and obtain a passport authenticating the fact that he was an American citizen entitled to all the privileges and immunities of such citizenship, and all this under the great seal of the Secretary of State.

The supposition that Russia's dread police system, at once accuser, judge and executioner, may have taken these alleged Robinsons into custody and confined them in that cold and forbidding mass of steel and stone known as Lubianka Prison, from which only mournful sounds arise, will be a credit to Moscow without harming America.

International adventurers, pulled by secret strings of wily conspirators, earn the high wages generally paid them for they are participants in a bitter and dangerous game and are all old enough to appreciate the chances they assume and the fate that may await them as a result of the devious methods employed.

Photographs are convenient and suitable for immediate identification but when long stretches of time are to be breached they are next to worthless.

Some day everyone will be fingerprinted. The practice will lessen fraud.

ASIATIC PARABLES ARE ANCIENT

These Japs are smart people. They spend no time butting their heads against stone walls.

Just as soon as America started laughing at their story of Japan as a kind-hearted brother who had been attacked by the Chinese they immediately abandoned most efforts in that direction and came out to a large extent with the truth from their side of the fence, that is the necessity of extending their domain.

Recently the President of the South Manchuria Railway wrote an attractive version of the affair with still another shade of color. He did not forget to remind America of what it did to the Indians here nor how it expanded at the expense of Mexico. And then he wrote this parable:

"China and Japan are two brothers who have inherited a great mansion called Eastern Asia. Adversity sent them both down to the depth of poverty. The ne'er-do-well elder brother turned a dope fiend and a rogue, but the younger, lean, but rugged and ambitious, ever dreamed of bringing back past glories to the old house."

The younger in a towering rage beat up the elder—trying to beat into him some sense of shame and awaken some pride in the nobler traditions of the great house. After many scraps, the younger finally made up his mind to stage a show-down fight. And that is the fight now raging along the North China and Shanghai fronts."

The parable has the great virtue of candor. Japan finally determined to stage a show-down war. The Japanese people appear to have no illusions upon that subject.

But the New York Times insists that the parable is merely a repetition of a very aged story having to do originally with Western Asia instead of the eastern part of that extensive continent. It suggests that the tale may be found written in the 4th chapter of Genesis and is known to the world as the story of Cain and Abel.

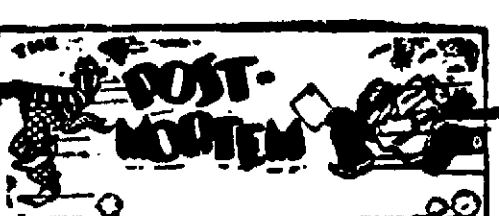

Opinions Of Others

LABOR PARTIES

While the American Labor party claimed that it was responsible for half the LaGuardia vote in New York, thus electing him, and C.I.O. tickets gained some standing in a few city elections, the result generally disclosed that there is little probability of success for a separate labor party. The American Labor party in New York was the local name for the misbranded Nonpartisan league, launched last year by Senator George L. Berry to help in the Roosevelt campaign. It was not nonpartisan, and the fiction could not be carried on. It switched to American Labor in an attempt to attract radicals not already attached to the Communist party.

Inasmuch as LaGuardia was also the Republican nominee and had a large popular following among the people, there is no way of checking the claims of the American Labor party. But it is certain that even after casting 276,000 votes in New York state for President Roosevelt last year, the American Labor party did not nominate candidates for minor offices, so that its real strength could be measured. As long as it supported Republican nominees, its leaders are free to make such claims as they desire.

The experience of labor parties in other cities, notably Detroit, is likely to convince advocates of separate labor parties that they are on the wrong track. To identify a candidate for public office as obligated to support any group, regardless of its purpose, and especially to favor one kind of labor union at the expense of others, is to offer a target for opponents of class rule. Samuel Gompers saw this weakness of

Jonah:

A third-box . . . iron-bound, but chipped on the edges . . . scared and dented . . . ah, the fights and arguments and clashing of wills put away! . . . the slamming of doors . . . the words smoky with acid . . . the peace offerings. A concealed Nebraska and a willful Wisconsin having it out.

And a fourth . . . gilt-edged . . . treasured most of them all . . . in it are the lessons we learned, painfully, tearfully and more often than not rebelliously. In it also are those haggard, grim days we walked the soles out of our shoes, the days on end we ate soup until we were blue in the face, the day we gave our three frocks to a colored family and found ourselves with only the thing on our back, the day the bubble burst and we found a piece of rainbow in our pocket . . . days, days, days. Will we ever forget them? We wonder if Mary Lou remembers the tall lad we befriended, who turned color until we could see the spots on his hide? And the night we came home to find the furniture gone, the pictures off the walls, the whole apartment a mess . . . but we sat up practically all those wet hours, exchanging wistful stories, swapping eerie tales until our hair stood on end and we bolted the doors and screwed down the windows. We could go on forever and then a day and not get half-way through.

And thus the closets are filling. In the dewey Spring we shall throw away many of them, labeling them rubbish and begin all over. There are many we will keep, however, but surely the rest will grow stagnant and perhaps dull that childish sentimentality we still hang on to. However, to borrow from a wise one: "It is necessary to move, to become permanent."

THAT CHRISTMAS LIST

I'd like to help with your Christmas list. It would give me lots of pleasure. And to your friends I'm sure it would mean Fine gifts that they would treasure.

For the Little Woman
Not knowing the lady, of course, you know I don't know what her taste is. But sable are good — and diamonds (?) too. If she doesn't know what "paste" is.

For Timmie, the Spaniel
A tiny lamp-post, painted green. Gaily tied with a red satin bow. When Timmie sees that beneath the tree His eyes with happiness will glow.

And Then
For all the others on your list I think it would be dandy. If you'd just don an apron some day. And make them all some candy.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SHIRLEY LOOKS IN THE MIRROR
Her mother worries because she—
Though she is scarcely ten years old—
Consults the mirror frequently!
Shirley must not be vain and bold!

But still her mother cannot look
Enough at that sweet childish face . . .
Bending above her lesson book,
She has intelligence and grace.

No wonder Shirley's interest lies
In her bright mirror's counterpart.
When she can read in her own eyes
The beating of her mother's heart!

Personal Health Talks

HAMMER AND TONGS VERSUS SCIENCE

A man who followed the reduction regimen given in the booklet "Design for Dwindling" weighed 195 pounds when he went on the regimen, and three weeks later he weighed 120 pounds. Then he gave up because he began to have headaches and dizziness, he says. Now he complains because he gained 6 pounds in three weeks after he abandoned the reduction regimen and resumed his habitual overeating.

In the first place the man ignored the advice given in the booklet. There I expressly caution against too rapid reduction, and explain that a sane, moderate reduction regimen is one that brings about the loss of not more than two or three pounds a week, or say six to eight pounds in a month. Yet there the man went at it hammer and tongs, reducing at the rate of five pounds a week. I believe that rate of reduction would make almost anybody feel ill.

Seldom does any one accumulate excess weight or superfluous flesh at an average rate of more than a pound a week, indeed the average rate of gain is nearer a pound a month. In other words the Overweight individual generally accumulates his surplus of twenty to thirty pounds over a period of two or more years.

Why are people who acquire overweight so leisurely in such a tearing hurry to get rid of it when they finally recognize their sad plight? For the same reason, I imagine, that makes other people subject themselves to an astonishing amount of discomfort under various strenuous treatments which, they imagine, will "boil those poisonous out of the system."

It requires grim determination to stick for even three weeks on a diet so severe that it reduces at the rate of five pounds a week. Greater determination than the average individual has. Sooner or later, where such a strenuous diet is followed, comes either an irresistible demand for proper nutrition or a breakdown—illness from malnutrition.

This hammer and tongs man further complained that the vitamins—minerals suggested to supplement the restricted diet began to be unpalatable after the second week. In that circumstance there are other forms in which a fair ration of vitamins and minerals may be taken daily to supplement any restricted diet—and such vitamins, at least, should always be taken by any one whose diet is being restricted for any purpose. There is no advantage to be gained in any case from restricting the supply of vitamins. Heaven knows few people get enough vitamins to maintain optimal health anyway.

Any adult who is putting on excess weight can best control the weight by adopting these simple principles or even one or two of them permanently:

1. Eat one less slice of bread, toast or equivalent amount of carbohydrate food daily than you have been accustomed to eat.
2. Push away from table just before the dessert arrives. Dessert is invariably just so much superfluous food on top of a square meal.
3. Use a quarter grain or half grain saccharin tablet instead of a teaspoonful of sugar for sweetening tea or coffee, if you customarily use sugar. Up to five grains of saccharin daily is perfectly harmless for anybody.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

"SAGITARIUS"

If December 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m.; from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The chapter periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a. m., from 4:15 to 6:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

A peculiar urge to appear mysterious may cause many a person to seem very foolish to their friends this day. Hidden meanings and incomprehensible phrases will bring upon those guilty of them, a great amount of unfriendly criticism. A willingness to give-and-take is apt to prove helpful in both domestic and business circles. It may pay to try to be complementary rather than supercilious or overly critical regarding other people's efforts. There is danger of your taking to heart some comment made in fun, so try not to be too sensitive. Many an absurdity will occur this day simply by the average person reasoning in a circle, that will result in a "lame and impotent conclusion." Married and engaged couples, as well as those who find themselves sincerely in love, must guard against anything that might be construed as undignified, if quarrels are to be avoided.

If a woman and December 17 is your birthday, you ought to be very grateful, light-footed and have plenty of self-possession. You may have the virtue of remaining silent unless you have something worthwhile to say or to kind to say. You are likely to discover, right under your nose, the opportunity you have been looking for far afield. You might have a decided aversion to publicity, preferring to do things quietly. You perhaps depend too much on the judgment of other people, so it might be well for you to use your own more frequently. Through writing, teaching, music, painting, acting, selling or some business of your own you may find yourself safely on the road to prosperity. Your experiences as a married woman should be most gratifying.

The child born on December 17 will be optimistic and genial with a love for sports and nature in all her moods. The great outdoors will have more attraction for it than the confines of four walls. Generally affluence and social distinctions are won by those born on this date.

If a man and December 17 is your natal day, you are probably thoroughly unselfish, honest and loyal to your friends. As a story writer, scientist, inventor, salesman, lawyer, doctor, contractor, or artist, fame may be awaiting you.

Successful People Born on December 17:

- Joseph Henry—scientist.
- Francis Wolle—botanist and inventor.
- Frederick W. Lander—engineer and explorer.
- Newton H. Winchell—geologist.
- Julian Edwards—composer.

A Bystander In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington—Today's lesson is about philately; if that seems strange in these turgid times, we can only explain that we ran into Mr. Philip H. Ward, the philatelist, of Philadelphia, at the White House.

Under his arm he carried $100,000 worth of such stamps as amateurs rave about. He brought them with the idea of inducing the President to issue a Benjamin Franklin memorial stamp next year. Jimmy Roosevelt tried to get him to leave the stamps for the President to examine at his leisure, but no go.

Mr. Ward insisted that if the President saw the stamps he would have to see Mr. Ward also. For him to let the stamps out of his possession would cause the insurance to lapse. Mr. Ward, who is plump and jolly but deadly serious about the stamp business, denied the insurance angle was a dodge to force the President to see him and soon Jimmy and everybody else was believing him, he was so earnest about everything.

The Upside-Down Stamp

While he was waiting for the President to see the stamps and him he showed them to anybody who wanted to see them. He knew the life history of each, how much it cost and how much it is worth now. Their value increases fabulously, at times the lucky mining stock. Mr. Ward said stamp values didn't flop even during the depression.

He had one of those 1918 airmail stamps with the plane upside down. Only one sheet of those got out of possession of the postoffice department. A Washington bank clerk bought the whole sheet over the counter. Both he and the clerk saw the sheet at the same instant but the bank clerk made the quickest grab and dashed for the door. He got $20,000 for that 50 yard sprint, a new high for such short dashes. In the beginning the stamps were retailed by a kindly philatelist to other philatelists for $250 each but now each stamp is worth $4,500.

Mr. Ward has some pre-civil war stamps with a special history. After the Civil war broke out, Mr. Ward related, the Confederate postmaster general ordered postmasters in each Confederate state to repay the federal government for all stamps sold up to the time the state seceded.

Bonus Valuable

That seemed pretty square shooting but Mr. Ward said the federal government didn't reciprocate. The government demonetized all the outstanding issues of stamps so the supplies in Confederate postoffices weren't worth a penny. Even now they are only fairly valuable, they are so plentiful. A three-cent stamp brings only about a dime. Philatelists sometimes make themselves by putting one on a letter. He says most postal clerks don't know that such stamps are "demonetized" and so are worthless in the eyes of the government. The letters go right through.

Mr. Ward also had one pre-Civil war stamp worth $10,000. It also was an upside-downer. The engraver put the flags on wrong and that issue went into philatelic history.

It seems sort of crazy, but the most valuable stamps usually are the ones printed in error, like the upside down plane and flags. It is nice to have a lot of people who can enjoy government blunders.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—In other years, before it grew into Big Business, Christmas cards were those pretty little things on counters that you forgot about until the last minute; then made a raid on the dime store counters and the people got them only four days late.

Now, however, the Yule card people are making a determined effort to educate New Yorkers in the why-and-wherefore (I almost said care and feeding) of greeting cards at Christmas, and also they are sponsoring a course of instruction in the proper etiquette of said cards. This has been more pronounced in New York.

Onto the desks of all metropolitan editors now has fallen a mimeographed history of the Christmas card—a fat manuscript that is filled with interesting do's and don'ts. For instance, the simpler expressions are most popular this season. The English "Cheerio" is used extensively, but the more formal French "Noel" is fading out.

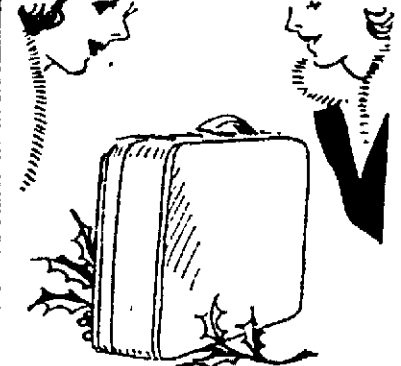

Individually signed cards are in favor and just as correct as printed or engraved signatures. There is grave danger in the latter if the type doesn't blend harmoniously with the background. As for color, blue is the dominant hue. Stars and trees, say in white, red and gold, against a blue background, give an ideal combination.

For absent friends who, perhaps, are in the chips and are therefore wintering in the South, or the tropics, special cards are to be found. These have a tropic atmosphere, with waving fronds replacing toboggans in snowy backgrounds.

The sophisticated wit of the first repeat years is out. . . . The pine have replaced the cocktail shaker and the frosted glass. . . . Skiers, silhouetted in black against a cobalt sky, and ice skaters swirling over mirrored lakes are high up in favor. . . . For the romantic minded there are love poems, with as much delicate sentiment as is required to thrill young hearts. . . . The mimeographed report points out: "If you have any cynical illusions about romance waning after marriage, you should see some of the new cards so popular this season."

As usual, the Child-and-lamb motif is strongly represented in the religious selections. . . . Cats, believe it or not, are gaining new friends at the Yule card season, demanding some of the recognition hitherto reserved for Scotties and penguins. . . . Other pets include squirrels, elephants, rabbits and birds.

Let's forget: All cards should be sent first class if possible—that

The lady who gives him luggage will carry away his heart.

If he is hard to buy a gift for. If he has everything now or has everything made to order, here is the very ticket for his trips out of town via car, train or plane. This luggage is planned as men like it. Roomy, yet light. Handsome in a he-man way. There's a place for everything including your photograph, for it's hard to think of any man leaving a lady who gives him this luggage without taking her along in his heart.

Council Accepts Avenue Paving and Resurfacing Jobs

Withholds $1,000 of Black Top Price to Guarantee Repairs

Aldermen at last night's council meeting accepted the paving project on W. College avenue and the black top resurfacing job on College avenue and Washington streets but withheld $1,000 of the resurfacing contract to guarantee repairs.

The money was withheld to guarantee that the Charles Green and Son company, contractors, bring low spots up to grade by July 1 and that the surfacing between Pierce avenue and Story street be replaced if the street continues to show wear.

The W. College avenue project is a concrete pavement between Outagamie street and Linwood avenue recently completed by Simpson and Parker while the resurfacing project includes the area between Drew and Story streets on College avenue and on Washington street between Oneida street and N. Superior street.

Koepe Brothers Construction company was awarded the contract to furnish the city with concrete pipe for storm sewer installation. The low bid offered 1,324 feet of 18-inch pipe at $1.17 per lineal foot; 840 feet of 24-inch pipe at $1.70 per lineal foot; and 2,540 feet of 36-inch pipe at $3.05 per lineal foot. Other bidders were Badger Concrete company, Oshkosh, and Wisconsin Concrete Pipe and Culvert company, Sheboygan.

A recommendation of the street lighting committee to purchase a used truck for the electrical department was approved. The cost was limited to $300. Alderman Kubitz explained that Louis Luebke, inspector, was using his private car to carry tools and equipment and that the city was allowing him $10 a month for the car.

Seek Fire Hose Bids
Because of a shortage of hose in the fire department, the council ordered the clerk to advertise for 1,500 feet of fire hose and authorized the fire and water committee to act on the bids.

Councilmen approved a resolution to install water mains on Fremont street from Kernan avenue to the present terminus and on Roosevelt street from Clark street west. A resolution, introduced by Alderman Harriman, that a primary election be held preceding the next city election also was unanimously approved.

Aldermen ordered the clerk to inform the street department to build a bicycle rack and place it between the public library and the Y. M. C. A. Alderman Harriman ex-

TWO GIANT CANDLES PRODUCE AN EFFECTIVE DISPLAY

Two giant candles on either side of the doorway, with surrounding smaller decorations, make this typical American home an impressive sight at Christmas time.

By studying the accompanying chart which shows how to make the candles, you can have this decoration with little cost and effort for your own home. But before you start work on it, fill out the blank on page 12 of this edition and enter the Post-Crescent Christmas Home Lighting Contest.

For your effort, you may receive a modern, expensive bridge lamp, an automatic Silex coffee maker or two sets of Christmas tree decorations, each with eight bulbs. These three prizes will be given in each of the four divisions of the contest.

plained the council should make an effort to provide places for bicycle parking before the proposed ordinance on bicycles is passed.

The bicycle ordinance was submitted by the committee and the mayor ordered that a copy be sent to each alderman before taking action. An ordinance regulating the height of shrubs near dangerous intersections was laid over until the next meeting.

Licenses Granted
An operator's license was granted to Ferd Reitzner, 300 N. Morrison street; a license to operate a tavern was granted at 619 W. College avenue; the Arcade was given a license to operate a bowling alley and junk dealers licenses were granted to Sam Shilerati, S. Simonowski, L. Simon and Jacob Golper. Permission was given to the city relief director and the city attorney to go to Milwaukee and investigate a non-resident relief claim against that city. The pair was authorized to close the account. Assessments for graveling W. Packard street from Badger avenue west were approved by the council. A motion by Alderman Knuijt that the city accept the county's offer of $25,000 to aid in the cost of road improvements in the Fourth ward was referred to the street and bridge committee.

Upon motion of Alderman Steinhauer, the council authorized the finance committee to hire an auditor to check the city's books for 1937.

The council approved bills totaling $38,675.09 and authorized the clerk to borrow $28,915 to take care of overdrafts in city funds.

Owl Flies Down Chimney In Home at Sheboygan

Sheboygan —?— What with the Santa Claus motif in everything these days, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoffmann didn't know what to expect when they heard a thumping noise in their chimney at 2 a. m. Hoffmann probed around. Out from an opening in the chimney came a big, soot-covered owl. Hoffmann retreated to a bedroom and closed the door. Friend husband chased the owl all over the house, finally trapping it in a blanket.

Women Can Get Along in World Without Marrying

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a trained nurse and have fallen in love with a doctor in the hospital where we are both employed. He does not pretend to be in love with me and says that he will never marry under present-day conditions. How can I make this man fall in love with me? I have always associated with the professional class, so the average run of men seem commonplace and do not appeal to me. I am 28, and at my age I may not have much time in which to be particular in my choice of a mate, but if I cannot have the type I want, I still have my job, which pays well, and I'll be satisfied. What do you think?

BETTY.

Answer:

I think you are a very level-headed young woman to face the issue squarely and to determine that if you can't marry the man you love you will espouse your career and not take any makeshift of a husband who happens to come along. The worst mistake any woman ever makes is to marry just to be a marrying.

To my mind the greatest blessing that the emancipation of women has brought to our sex is saving them from enforced marriage. In the old days a girl had to marry because it was the only lawful career open to her, but now no girl has to marry unless she wants to, and in that freedom lies decency and self-respect and happiness.

Of course, every girl would like to marry. If she can marry a man whom she loves and who loves her, and who is faithful and kind to her, she has the nearest approach to Paradise that is to be found on this sad old earth. But if she cannot marry the man who is her heart's desire, she need not feel that she has missed everything and be filled with self-pity.

There are lot of things besides husbands and the girl who, like you, has a good profession, can have a far better time than three-fourths of the married women have. She can have her own pocketbook. They are among the choicest of blessings. And she won't have to worry over a husband who may perchance stay out of nights, or philander, or be a grouch, or one of the men who sit down and let their wives support them. For not all husbands are plaster saints. A lot of them have not only feet of clay, they are all mud.

As for the man you are in love with and who does not reciprocate, I think you had best give him up as a hopeless case. You have had your chance in working with him and if propinquity failed to do its deadly work the case is all washed up.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Is there any way in which a mother can protect her baby against its doing grandparents? My little son of 6 months is the first grandchild in both of our families. Hence he is not only the victim of four grandparents, but also of numerous aunts and uncles, all of whom are crazy about him, want to kiss him and play with him and feed him, with the result that they leave him a nervous wreck with an upset stomach. Whenever I take him to my mother's or my husband's mother, he always comes home fretful and sick. I have had a miserable time fighting everybody off and saying "leave the baby alone." My mother is particularly offended and tells me that SHE has raised six and there is nothing wrong with any of them; that I am heartless and callous in the way I treat the baby and don't know anything about bringing up children. Maybe I don't, but I don't intend to let my child grow up with curvatures.

ture of the spine from being handled too much, and I intend to let him alone so that his stomach won't come up to meet his tonsils whenever he takes his bottle. Please, Miss Dix, advise me as to raising my child in spite of his grandparents. MODERN MOTHER.

Answer:

Alas, my dear, I am afraid that the only way that you can protect your baby from being manhandled by its grandparents is to move to some distant place where Grandma can't reach him with the arms that are just aching for the feel of a baby in them once more.

As for convincing Grandma that the Baby Book knows more about the rearing, feeding and care of infants than she does, that is an impossibility. She will laugh all the theories to scorn. You won't have much of a comeback when she points to her six healthy, strong, up-and-goin' sons and daughters to prove that feeding a baby when it was hungry and cried for food instead of by the clock didn't stunt John's growth and make him a pummy; that rocking Sally to sleep didn't wreck her nervous system, and that Tommy and Bobby were not slayed by germs because they were kissed.

It is all right, of course, not to let the family make a toy of your baby; to keep it as quiet as you can and to feed it at regular times, but the petting and the osculation as much as possible, but don't go to the other extreme and cut the baby off from all human contacts.

One of the latest authorities on rearing babies says that babies need to be handled. That it is good for them. That they get tired of lying still on a hard bed. Furthermore, he says that babies get bored with their own society and want to be talked to and chuckled under the chin; that they are vain little creatures who just gloat over being shown off, and that the babies who are made much of develop faster and are brighter than the ones who are reared by the spartan plan laid down in the old Baby Book.

Don't forget that you owe something to the doting grandparents as well as to the baby. I have seen many an old man's and woman's eyes fill with tears as they told how a modern young mother never even

The People of Pompeii

The streets of Pompeii are a foot or more below the level of the sidewalks. They are rather narrow, but two chariots could have passed each other on certain streets.

At corners, there are stepping stones. These were used by people on foot, and were useful when water filled the streets after a heavy rain.

A Part of Pompeii's Forum

The stepping stones were placed a little distance apart, so chariots could pass them. Ruts worn in the pavement by chariot wheels can be seen today.

Among the other sights I saw at Pompeii were objects in glass let them touch the adored and longed-for grandchild.

Speaking as one who remembers how soft was a grandmother's breast, how tender the cradle her arms made, and how beautiful was the crooning of the old songs with which she rocked me to sleep, I am sorry for any boy who is deprived of a grandmother. Poor little mite! It has missed one of the most beautiful things on earth.

cases. These included pans and jugs made from bronze, also combs, dice and pieces of jewelry. In one case I saw nine leaves of Pompeian bread. Once they were white, but now they are black. They were "carbonized" at the time Pompeii was buried by hot ashes. Later the guide showed me the stone oven where the bread was found.

Think of bread 1,848 years old! Each loaf is of circular shape, and is from seven to nine inches wide, and about two inches thick. Fish-hooks were found amid the ruins. I looked at the hooks closely, and noticed that they are barbed. Pompeii was near the seashore, and some of the people went fishing. A further proof of this is found in the weights from fishing nets which have been dug up.

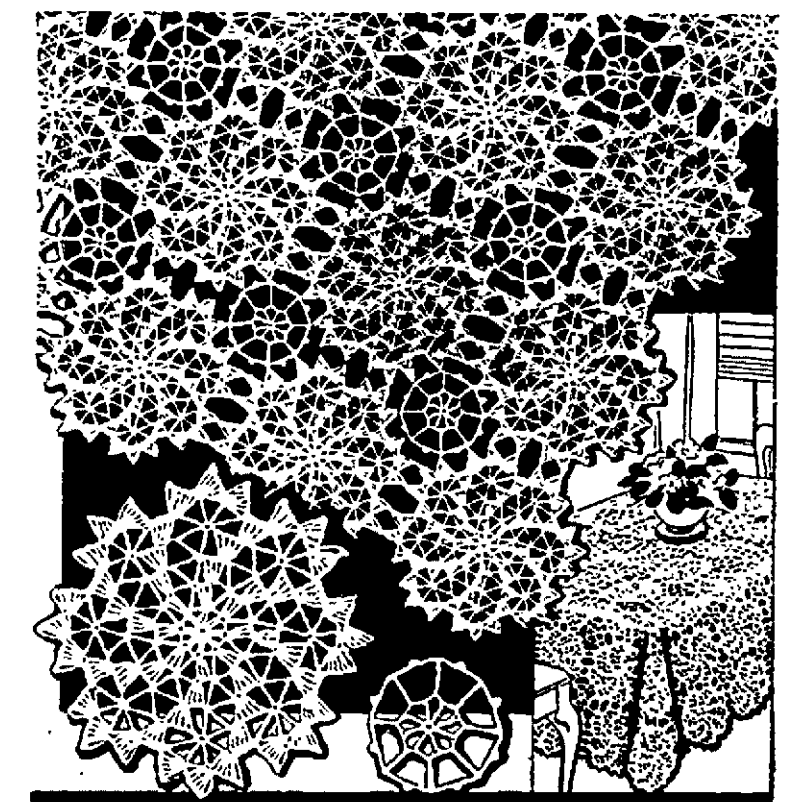

The exact population of ancient Pompeii is not known, but it is believed to have been between 20,000 and 25,000. When Mt. Vesuvius broke loose, the people ran to their homes, or to boats. Those who took shelter in their homes found that the ashes were slowly but surely burying the city. Most of them ran away, and reached safety. Some fell dead while running. Still others died in their homes. The loss of life has been figured at from 2,000 to 3,000.

Pompeii had public baths, and I visited one of them during my tour. It had a large room for cold baths, and another large room for hot baths. Hot water was made to run through pipes inside the walls.

Ideas to Fill The Stocking

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Once we started stocking for lovely little things as suggestions, we found so many that it would take a week or more to tell about them. Here are a few worthy of honorable mention.

A little nail brush in the form of a fish will be quite welcome to young and old alike. It is shaped to provide a convenient hold for thoroughly cleansing around the nail bed. It has firm, resilient bristles and it comes in colors.

The travel kit tooth brush is another swell tuck-in for the toe of the Christmas stocking. The holder does a pre-change act, screwing to the end of the brush and becoming a handle when it is not a holder. It is much simpler than it sounds in the telling and it comes in red, blue, black, green, yellow and rose. A perfect little luxury for the traveler.

Little Kits of Beauty Another ideal gift for the traveler is a little zippered bag, rubber lined on the inside and washable on the outside; holding two jars and two bottles into which you pour your favorite lotions and creams. In case of leakage or spillage the rubber lining serves as your protection. This little kit fits into a mother kit, that looks like airplane luggage, has two convenient handles which you slip over your arm or suspend from an accessible hook in berth or cabin.

There are unfitted kits too, flat, envelope styles which snap or zip and are designed to hold many sundry articles. Similar little envelopes are available for the woman who travels from purse to purse. A splendid time-saver, the little envelope that holds all the little necessities items that the average purse collects. It will save tempers too . . . tempers usually lost in hunting for odds and ends that somehow find their way to the out-of-the-way corners of the purse. I'm giving several of these little envelopes. They're available in standard colors to match purse shades.

Small, compact manicuring sets make splendid gifts. What a welcome blessing they are when the nails need repair.

Players Are Often Better Off to Pass

BY ELY CULBERTSON

One thing I learned from the national bridge examination, in respect to average bidding habits, is that many players do not properly appreciate the theory and practice of preempting. In several questions in which the correct opening bid or response was four or five, contestants showed that they recognized the value of preemptive bids by not doing the right thing. In other words, if the correct opening bid was five diamonds, hundreds of readers answered four diamonds, and even more hundreds, three diamonds. Apparently there was conflict between realization that something drastic had to be done and the courage required to do it properly. A minor suit bid of three or four is a shut-out, but not enough to Question No. 9 of the examination was:

Your opponents are vulnerable. You are not. You deal and pick up this hand:

♠ 2 ♥ None ♦ K Q 10 9 8 5 3 ♣ Q J 9 7

What call do you make?

To my sorrow, there were many more answers of three or four diamonds than of the proper five diamond preemptive. Yet, it would be hard to set up a hand more thoroughly in keeping with a five diamond bid than this one. Defensively, the hand is almost worthless. The extreme length of the diamond suit rules out a count of even one diamond winner on defense. The hand does have slight defensive strength in clubs, but not enough to bank on.

Now, let us examine the offensive strength. An eight card suit headed by the K-Q-10 will deliver seven tricks to the holder, except against a very bad break. The Q-J-9-7 of clubs, protected and fortified by such a long trump suit, is raised in playing strength so that the holder may justifiably count about two playing tricks. The kings the total playing trick strength to about nine. Surely it is worth while to overbid two tricks, when not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, on the mere chance that they have a potential game.

Again I state that when it is found advisable to make a shut-out bid, if the hand is weak defensively, the highest shut-out consistent with safety should be chosen.

West opened the heart king and declarer foolishly ruffed. One round of trump revealed the situation, but it was too late to recover ground lost on the first trick. East was one trump up on declarer and the latter could not get rid of his three losing diamonds.

Winning play was simplicity itself. Surely declarer could see that he was absolutely solid except for his three losing diamonds. All he had to do was make West a present of three heart tricks, chucking diamonds from his own hand. Dummy's trump then would have protected him from a force, and ten tricks would have been a laydown.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

LETTERS FROM FRATERNITY HOUSES

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have your answers as to the best way to serve in the dining room of a fraternity house. Tables seat from eight to ten men. Service must be simplified wherever possible. Which means that at times the individual plates are filled in the kitchen and then again the "head of the table" serves from a large platter placed in front of him. Which way is employed depends upon the menu. But when individual plates are brought in from the kitchen, who should be served first at each table, or isn't this important? And when the man at the head of the table does the serving, who is served first? Or again, isn't this important?

Answer: I am supposing that the "head of the table" is one of the "brothers" and of the same rank (if this is the proper way to describe it) as all the others at table. If this is true, I don't see that it matters who is served first. The order might be changed from day to day so that the same men do not always get the first plates and the same others the tail-ends. "Official" guests should be seated at the right and left of the acting host and served first, of course. Personal friends of any of the men at table would probably be seated next to their particular friends and serve first, if this is practical. When the "head of the table" carries and plates are passed at the table there is no rule for the direction they take, but my suggestion would be to send one to the right and the next to the left.

Dear Mrs. Post: Occasionally one of the men in our house brings in a lady to dinner, unexpectedly, and after the rest of the men have been seated. We all sit at one very long table. Naturally, every one rises and confusion prevails for a minute or two. Some of the men have suggested that it should be made a rule of the house that none of the men get up at such times. Do you think the manners of the house could be criticized by any visitors if we made this rule?

Answer: I think criticism would be inevitable, and I think also that most visitors must be rather embarrassed at having the whole room thrown into disorder on their account. Therefore, the situation definitely demands that a woman visitor be prompt, so that her host can escort her into the dining room first. Of course, if the dining room were furnished with a number of tables, then only those at whose table she is to be seated are expected to rise—or maybe the gesture of half-rising.

ACCIDENT HAZARD GROWING AAA TESTS SAFETY MEASURES

A car even momentarily out of control is a menace to driver, passengers, other motorists and bystanders. American Automobile Association in Official Test No. 3143 proved how the menace of slippery roads can be minimized by the use of good Tire Chains.

A car equipped with two Weed American Bar-Reinforced Tire Chains can be stopped in 45.8% less distance than the same car without chains. With the chains on all four tires, the car stopped in 66.2% less distance than without chains.

Only $8,365 Paid To Jobless From Paper Mill Fund

Tables Show Work Is Steadier Than in Any Other Industry

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — That employment in the Wisconsin paper and pulp industry has a greater degree of stability than most other Wisconsin manufacturing industries may be deduced by tabulations of individual employer reserve accounts and individual benefits paid out under the Wisconsin unemployment insurance act during the first year of its operation. Detailed statistics on the operation of the act were released by the state industrial commission this week.

The tables show that through June of this year about 4,500 Wisconsin employers covered by the law paid in excess of $23,000,000, and of this total, almost $2,000,000, is represented by the contributions of 61 paper and paper products manufacturers, many of them in the Fox river valley, since they became liable for contributions three years ago.

However, because of the steady nature of employment in the paper industry, only $8,365 has been paid out from the paper manufacturers' reserve accounts during the first year that benefits were paid, from August, 1936, to June of 1937.

The percentage of benefits paid to the total contributions of the paper manufacturers is only .7 per cent, compared with a state average for all industries of 4.7 per cent, showing that employment in the paper industry has been exceptionally steady, at least since the inauguration of the state job insurance system.

The industrial commission report shows that although there are about 4,500 individual employer accounts representing the firms which are subject to the law, only 55 per cent through June of this year had experienced benefit withdrawals from their accounts.

License Is Renewed

Pending Court Ruling

Madison — In compliance with a circuit court injunction the state board of health announced today it has renewed the license of Sidney Haudenschild, of Dubuque, Iowa, to do embalming work and conduct funerals in Wisconsin.

The board's order, suspending Haudenschild's license for 60 days effective Dec. 15, will be held in abeyance until the Dane county circuit court determines whether it should be affirmed or reversed.

Cloudy and Mild, Weatherman Says

Traffic Moves Easier as Ice Glaze on City Streets Softens

The weather was still mild and damp in Appleton and vicinity today, but the film that settled over walks and streets yesterday had softened bickering traffic conditions.

Cloudy weather tonight and tomorrow, with little change in temperature, is the weatherman's forecast. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning the highest mark recorded was 32 and the lowest, at 4 o'clock this morning, 23, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

At 12:30 this afternoon the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 30 degrees and a slight wind was coming from the west.

sion. Nobody, however, has been authorized or detailed to frame a platform.

Several senators said they had declined to sign the statement, leading some observers to believe its circulation had been abandoned.

Among those advocating greater spending was Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.), who said an increase in works progress expenditures would be likely to provide business with a temporary impetus.

Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) said he believed an increase in unemployment would force additional relief expenditures, but added that he was in favor of any "pump priming" activity.

Senator Adams (D. Colo.) said he favored increasing relief expenditures, if the need for additional funds was shown. He asserted

Time Clocks Get Biggest Workout in Appleton This Year Since Peak of 1929

BY JOHN A. WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — While American business and government worry over the current business recession, Appleton business and industry will close their books on December 31 of this year with a better showing during 1937 than during any other year since 1929, preliminary figures available at the state industrial commission's statistical department showed today.

Appleton employment and payrolls, rising steadily during the last eight years, during the year kept ahead of the 1925-27 level, considered by statisticians as normal, and generally above the peak months of 1929, according to a survey of the monthly reports of the commission.

The latest figures for 1937 which are available at the commission's offices are for October, which show manufacturing employment and payrolls approximately equal to the boom period of 1929, while preliminary reports indicate only a slight letdown during November, which will be made up by the Christmas business in December, it is expected.

A comparative picture of Appleton's economic situation during the last several years can be gained by a perusal of the highest index numbers for employment in the city since 1929, based on the 1925-27 volume which is considered to be equivalent to 100 per cent. They are reported by the commission as follows:

1930	98.4
1931	90.0
1932	83.3
1933	100.5
1934	97.2
1935	99.1
1936	100.7
1937 (August)	107.2

Seasonally total payrolls in Appleton have shown a marked increase in 1937 generally keeping well above the 1929 prosperity levels. For example the high point in 1929 was 110.6, while the peak this year was shown in June with an employment index of 116.

Using total manufacturing payroll as a basis, here is the picture ed that revision of the undivided surplus tax would bolster business confidence, and declared he was opposed to large capital expenditures by the government.

"I think it's going to be necessary to increase government spending in the next few months," observed Senator Norris (D-Neb.).

Senator Bailey, in discussing the proposed business statement, said many persons believed a line of action might be formed "to carry the country through the transition from a period in which government spending rather necessarily depended, into a period of private investment, as suggested by the president."

He apparently referred to Mr. Roosevelt's proposals to stimulate the home building industry and to increase construction activities of private utility firms.

Mr. Roosevelt surveyed the business situation yesterday with Secretary Roger and W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the commerce department's business advisory council. His visitors did not disclose what was said.

of economic conditions in Appleton during 1937, as far as records are available, with the average again represented by the 1925-27 level as 100 per cent:

January	101.6
February	103.2
March	102.2
April	104.0
May	103.9
June	104.7
July	104.3
August	107.2
September	105.2

From September to October there was a decrease in Appleton employment of 2.7 per cent, but a hardly perceptible decrease in total payrolls, showing either an increase in working hours or an increase in hourly rates of pay.

Declares Recession 'Localized in Extent'

Detroit — (U) — The current business recession, said W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company last night "is strictly localized in extent" and lacks many of the characteristics of a major depression.

"There is no financial uncertainty, no distrust of banks, no feeling of foreboding among the common people," he said in an address before the Michigan Manufacturers' association.

"Politically there is no fear of a dictator. We have discovered we don't raise the kind of a man willing to dictate or the kind of people willing to be dictated to."

Commenting on Michigan labor troubles, Cameron said: "The state has been filled with aliens preaching destruction. They were met by a governor who believed they were the advance guard of progress."

"Behind the governor was a president who regarded labor agitators as his storm troopers to force on the nation something the people themselves wouldn't stand for."

Latin Club Committee To Plan January Party

Little Chance for Two Major Bills

Whip Boland forecast that attempt would fail.

Friends of the bill expressed greater concern over strength demonstrated for exemptions from the wage-hour standards. They noted that before the A. F. of L. substitute had been defeated it had been amended to provide for broad exemptions.

By big margins, the house voted to exclude processors of all agricultural commodities from the bill's provisions.

The votes were taken during a tumultuous session yesterday that lasted past the dinner hour. It started with intricate parliamentary maneuvers which friends of the measure characterized as filibustering and ended with opposition criticism of the administration's procedure.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader, said the procedure in the house was "typical of the house leadership in recent years." He charged debate on the A. F. of L. substitute had been cut off.

The senate spent most of a night session—the first this fall—arguing over division of the farm bill's cotton allotments within states. It finally rejected 47-19 a proposal to consider tilted lands and human population in allocating quotas, and left in effect the present basis of allocation on past production.

Vote Limit on Costs

Earlier it approved unanimously an amendment by Democratic Leader Barkley to limit administrative costs. Offered as a compromise to meet criticism from Senators Byrd (D-Va.), Russell (D-Ga.) and Hatch (D-N.M.), it would limit administrative costs in Washington to 1 per cent of the program's expenditures and those outside Washington to 2 per cent.

The senate struck from the bill a provision which would have prohibited benefit payments to farmers who failed to produce "good and feed crops sufficient to meet home consumption."

The senate paused in the farm

Konsavage Faces Charge of Forgery

Former Probation Officer Also Accused of Larceny as Bailee

Edward A. Konsavage, 40, former probation officer of Manitowish and Sheboygan counties, is charged with 11 counts of larceny as bailee and one of forgery, involving $1,450, in a warrant issued yesterday by Municipal Judge O. T. Bredesen, Manitowish.

Konsavage, well known in Outagamie county, is now in custody at Green Bay on a charge of taking an automobile without the owner's consent. The warrant was asked by L. F. Murphy, superintendent of probation and parole, who said it followed an investigation conducted for the state board of control.

The report of the state board revealed that Konsavage, suspended Oct. 16, was discharged Dec. 7 when irregularities in handling of state funds were claimed.

Murphy charged Konsavage with taking money belonging to parolees and probationers and converting it to his own use. He said $1,450 was involved, of which $856 has been recovered to the board.

Zuehlke Points to Wisconsin Laws as Model for New Deal

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Much of the valuable legislation that will endure in the New Deal has been engendered by Wisconsin statutes, Raymond C. Zuehlke of Appleton, secretary to Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton, told the "Little Congress" at a meeting here.

Members of the "Little Congress" include congressional employees on Capitol Hill.

Zuehlke's praise of Wisconsin's liberal legislation was made during the course of a debate on the subject. "Resolved: that the Black-Canary fair labor standards bill should be adopted." Speaking with the Wisconsin secretary in the affirmative was Joseph Clority of North Carolina upheld the negative side of the question.

"Wisconsin's record in enactment of legislation for the worker's welfare stands as a model for all state governments and the federal government," Zuehlke said. He noted that Wisconsin was the second state to ratify the child labor amendment and discussed child labor laws now in effect in Wisconsin which Congressman Schneider has proposed be adopted in the wages and hours bill.

Ludlow, Indiana Congressman, Fights Three Years for "Peace Amendment"

Washington — (U) — Representative Louis Ludlow (D-Ind.) leaned far back in his chair today, crossed the long legs that have propelled him around Washington for 36 years as a newspaper man and congressman, and said:

"From the day in January, 1935, when I first filed the petition to force house consideration of my 'peace amendment,' until the 218th name was affixed Tuesday, I never once gave up hope."

"That doesn't mean," he added, "that I didn't get jittery when my secretary sent me a note in a committee that the battle had been won. In fact, I was so confused I forgot some of the terms of the resolution when asked about them on the floor of the house."

Ludlow's associates, however, said that the author of the proposed constitutional amendment requiring a national referendum before congress could declare war was so calm that he returned to his committee and quizzed witnesses for an hour afterward.

"Louie, the plugger," is the term applied to the big, loose-jointed Hoosier by his friends. He is constantly on the go.

First as a Washington reporter and then for five terms as a member of the house, Ludlow always has disdained street cars and taxicabs, relying on a lengthy, swinging stride to get from place to place.

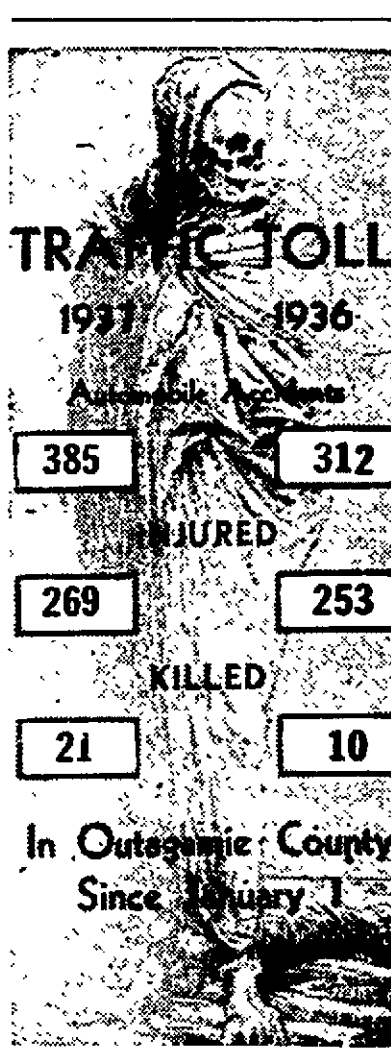

He is tremendously proud of his double-barreled "peace amendment." Briefly, it provides that the citizens of America vote on the question: "Shall the United States declare war on . . . ? and if war is declared the president shall consent for use of the government all public and private war properties."

He realizes the amendment is still far from enactment. It is not likely to come to a house vote before January, and it must have the approval of three-fourths of the states as well as two-thirds of congress.

Secretary Hull expressed opposition to it yesterday, saying he could not see how it was wise or practicable "from the standpoint of promoting peace and keeping this country out of war."

Lawrence students have voted 346 to 39 not to go too far on foreign soil.

They expressed their attitudes towards war in a vote taken in a convocation at Lawrence chapel. Asked if they would fight if the United States were invaded, 327 indicated they would and 60 voted refusals. The question, "Would you enlist if a United States' possession were invaded?" had 274 negatives and 99 affirmatives.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor
Berkeley, Calif. — Science has gone to the icebox for a new vitamin—called K, which aids in clotting the blood.

Evidence of existence of this vitamin has been growing for some time. The icebox method of obtaining a more powerful concentration of it was invented by H. J.

Almquist of the University of California.

He placed a concentrate of the new vitamin in methanol, a liquid which does not freeze readily. The methanol was then placed in solid carbon dioxide, dry ice, which has a temperature about 105 degrees below zero.

The vitamin K concentrate froze into colorless crystals. These were thawed and again placed in methanol and refrozen. Each time the crystals of vitamin K became a little more pure.

In this way a colorless vitamin K was made which was eight times faster in clotting blood than the original concentrate. Medical scientists are interested in the vitamin for possible uses in hemorrhages.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — It's to be four pictures a year, no more, for Skippy, alias Asta, alias Mr. Smith. Henry East, owner and manager of the brightest little wire-hair in pictures—"The Thin Man," "The Awful Truth," etc.—now turns down "unimportant" roles for his protegee. East thinks too many screen appearances will jeopardize Skippy's screen value, which is considerable, as East recently refused to sell the dog for $25,000. . . .

Over-Frimping
Speculation: Would any movie fan notice it if the star didn't rush over, between takes, to have the hairdresser smooth every last strand of hair into place? It seemed especially silly, seeing Deanna Durbin having her nice bob patted and brushed when it looked no different before or after. What 14-year-old school-girl, excited as Deanna was supposed to be in the scene, ever looked so perfectly coiffured?

Fred Allen (in "Sally, Irene, and Mary") memorizes his lines faithfully but the other day he fumbled a couple he was supposed to be reading Jimmy Durante from a letter. . . . Not strange, however, because they never, never write anything on movie letters.

French Do Own Make-Up
Today's quotation, from Halliwell Hobbes: "Life begins at 50, not 40. All the major emotions, love, hate, jealousy, great ambition, pride of power, determination to succeed at any price, are or should be the sole prerogatives of youth. . . . When hot blood cools and age advances, then is the time to readjust one's viewpoints and so arrange life that its autumn shall be one of beauty and rounded-out accomplishment. . . . (Hobbes by this reckoning, recently turned 10 years of age. . . .)

Danielle Darrieux, like Annabella, will do her own make-up for pictures. . . . Must be an old French custom, inasmuch as Simone's first major battle in Hollywood was fought with the make-up man. . . . Annabella is concentrating on American ways and speech now. . . . Orders in her home are for no French dialogue, and none but typically American food. . . .

Louise Hovick has the largest portable dressing room in town. . . . It's her honeymoon trailer—with two rooms, bath, kitchen, and kennel for her six dachshunds. . . . The latter don't come to work, however. . . .

For Double-Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Better Than Ready-Made
Medicines. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but for real results, it is still the best thing ever known for coughs that start from colds. Try it once, and you'll swear by it. It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Santa MAY HAVE WHISKERS BUT CONTEMPO Gift IDEAS DON'T

Old fashioned sentiments are all right at Christmas time, but go modern in your gift-giving! Our Contempo fashions bring the streamlined idea of what to give with what! Instead of giving ties, and shirts, and so forth that are orphans as far as relation goes, give gifts that go together. If you give a man one of these robes, give him the pajamas that go with it. Or if you give him a shirt, see that he gets the tie, handkerchief, suspenders and socks that are related to it.

Make a grand gesture by giving an entire Related Ensemble. Or you might give the shirts, and ring in other members of the family, or friends, to give the other items!

For the Fellow who likes differently smart accessories, the new Hugestone striped Shirt shown with French cuffs should surely please him — especially if the tie, socks, and handkerchiefs are made part of the balanced gift.

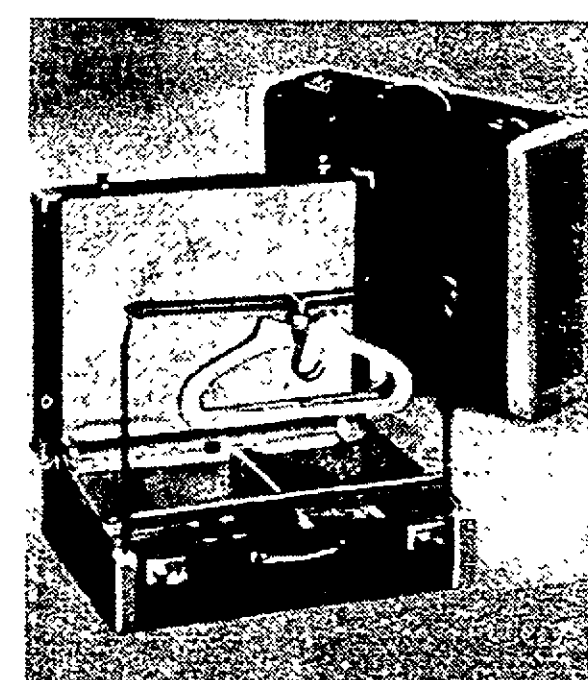

Club group in wine, blue, brown or white ground broadcloth Shirt with colored oversquare — $2.50.

Chevron weave twill Tie — $1.00. Macclesfield type Tie — $1.50. Woolen Hose — 75c. Ribbon Suspenders — $1.50. Fine Handkerchiefs — 50c. This group is perfect for the man who dresses in a casual manner.

Spectators Storm Ring as Grapplers Stage Wildest Show at Menasha Armory

BY RANDY HAASE
MENASHA—Wrestling in the Twin Cities reached a new high—or low, depending upon the viewpoint, when spectators stormed the ring at the close of the windup bout between Duke Ruppenthal, billed as Canadian middleweight champion, and Louie Kodrick, Peshtigo, last night at S. A. Cooke armory.

There was keen competition to see who could draw the most ire from the crowd. The referee, Speedy Frank of Texas, won, chiefly because he offered his job to the crowd and paid no attention to the grapplers while they committed mild mayhem upon each other.

The supporting role as villain was taken by Ruppenthal, who used his rough tactics early and often, to bring several of the more violent of the addicts to the ring's edge brandishing chairs. Ruppenthal, originally billed as the referee, filled in because Pocan has an injured thumb.

The final bout ended in a melee with the referee, Ruppenthal and Kodrick, all mixing up in the ring while the previous performers, by prearrangement, stood guard to keep the crowd off Ruppenthal. He took the first fall in 26 minutes with a back breaker followed by a body press while Kodrick took the second with a series of flying mares followed by a body press.

Pantomimed innocence, rough maneuvers obvious to the crowd but apparently hidden from the referee, quite expert tumbling with feet and hands hitting the canvas hard and some quite excellent portrayals of fear played their part in arousing the crowd. The bout was called a draw.

Tarzan Krause gave a good performance in the semi when he won from Jack Steele, Des Moines, Ia., in two straight falls. He took the first fall in 10 minutes with a leg split after absorbing some of Steele's rough stuff. The crowd first got worked up in this bout and used the intermission to boo the referee.

The second fall was awarded to Krause on a foul after three minutes and how the crowd cheered! Steele pulled hair and used his fists freely with Krause staggering around the ring, apparently groggy. A nicely delivered kick by Steele was the final rule infraction that gave Krause the bout.

Earl Otto, Appleton, worked through a routine of holds for 10 minutes with Pete Pancroft before taking the fall in 11 minutes in the opener. He used a series of body slams that required Pancroft's cooperation before he used a body press for the pinning hold.

New London—Coach Stacy gave his "A" squad eagles a tough workout last night when alumni players now on city teams were invited in for a practice scrimmage at Washington High school gym. The varsity was up against stiff competition in the size and experience of the former high school stars.

Most of the alumni were members of Mike's Tavern cage team. Some of the fellows faced by the Stacy men were Tip Krohn, Pete Westphal, Bob Krause, Vernon Brun, Vernon Dobberstein, Dave Freiburgh, Harold Kitowski and Bob Ullrich.

Seeking a fast-breaking combination in his new squad, Coach Stacy has been experimenting, the past week. Douglas Hofer has been tried with success at the guard post with Stewart Hammeberg and Don Stern at forward with Bernie Stern, Jim Mesnick, center, and Francis Meinhardt and Lee Smith have been juggled around and on occasions members of the "B" squad have been taken in with the regulars for a trial.

Results of the combinations may be apparent in Friday's game at Menasha and another at Neenah Tuesday, after which the squad will have several weeks to prepare for a series of home conference tilts after the holiday vacations.

Shawano — Apparently disgruntled with the poor showing made by the high-riding Indians against the Neenah Red Rockets last week, Coach Dills has been working the team behind closed doors in preparation for Friday's game with Kaukauna.

Although the Indians floundered through for an 18 to 15 win over the Neenah five for their fifth straight victory, the brand of basketball displayed was not the type that warms the cockles of a coach's heart. Slipshod passing, heads in the clouds, and poor teamwork were the order of the night and the team is being worked hard to present a different style of play against the Electric City five.

With a third of the season gone and 25 per cent of the scheduled Northeastern Wisconsin conference games successfully out of the way, the Indians are expected to drive on through to a conference championship. According to advance dope on the season's contenders, Neenah and West De Pere were regarded by the strongest challengers for the Shawano crown. Neenah took the Phantoms into camp by a close score and on a basis of comparative points, the three teams are fairly evenly bunched.

River Falls Defeated
In Last Minute of Play
River Falls, Wis. — Sinking two free throws in the last minute of play, MacAlester college of St. Paul beat the River Falls Teachers, 30 to 37, in a basketball game here last night.

Noyes, MacAlester center, dropped in both charity throws after he was fouled shortly before the final gun. River Falls had a 19 to 12 half-time lead.

Koch, MacAlester forward, made 10 points for the winners, while Blank and Randall, forwards, shared honors with 11 points each for River Falls.

Greenleaf Wins First
Match Against Crane
New York — Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiards champion, and also a champion worrier, was feeling a little easier today as he met young Irving Crane of Rochester, who is challenging him for the title.

Greenleaf has won 15 times in the second block of their 1,500 point match. The champion trounced the upstate youngster, 125 to 1, in the first block of the match last night.

accompany the wax, and these directions should be carefully followed. Waxes made by reliable concerns should be selected. Some experimentation and experience will be necessary to attain the best results.

In storing skis at the close of the season, a block of wood of proper proportions to maintain the curve should be placed between them, and the skis should then be strapped or clamped firmly together. Manufacturers will supply blocks and straps of proper size, together with a metal device for maintaining the proper curve at the nose. Any one, however, with slight mechanical ingenuity can make these appliances himself. This preparation for storage serves as an insurance against warping.

NOTE TO READERS: This department will gladly answer any questions you may have to ask about skiing, fitted ski-trap-shooting and other outdoor activities. Send your questions, together with a stamped and addressed envelope for your reply to North American Sportsman's Bureau, Wrigley Bldg., Chicago, Ill., or direct to this newspaper.

THE SELECTION AND CARE OF SKIS

By Dillon Wallace

SKIS ARE MODELED to suit the particular purpose for which the purchaser intends them, whether for jumping, hill running, or ordinary utility or recreation. That is to say, one type of ski is adapted to racing, another to jumping, another to down-hill running, and still another to touring. Each is best suited to the purpose for which it was designed. The expert will perhaps have skis for each purpose, and to suit varying conditions of snow. The beginner, however, for whom this is written, will seldom care to invest in more than one pair of skis, and this should be a model adapted to all-around use and practice. With this in view, the slalom model is recommended. Slalom is a Norwegian term signifying uninterrupted coasting upon a winding course, and may include jumping. This model is broader at the curved toe, narrower to the point of tread, and broadens slightly at the heel. It is serviceable and sturdy, and has greater width than the racing, touring, and down-hill models, providing greater support in light or soft snow, and at the same time is suited to either hilly or level country.

Standard lengths range from six to eight feet, in three-inch steps, for adults; and in lengths of from four to five and one-half feet for children and youths. Occasionally one may find them longer, but these are not usual. The length of the ski should be appropriate to the height of the user. Too short a ski will offer too little support upon light snow; if too long, it will prove clumsy, particularly in hill climbing. The rule is to place the ski perpendicular upon its heel, and standing erect, with the arm extended upward, reach the point of the curved toe with the tips of the fingers. If the point at the end of the curve can just be reached, the ski is of proper length.

Skis are to be had in hickory, ash, maple, birch and yellow pine. Any wood that can be bent into form, will hold its shape, and will not splinter readily, is suitable. Expert skiers prefer hickory because it is tough and the surface is slippery, and in high jumping balances well. It has better wearing qualities than the other woods named, and will therefore give longer and better service; and though the initial cost is greater, hickory skis will, in the end, prove the most economical. However, many prefer ash. It is light, strong, springy and gives excellent service. Maple is said to make the easiest sliding ski. It is durable but heavier than ash. Birch is light and smooth, and will give fairly good service. Yellow pine is light, but has not the slipping qualities of the other woods, and will not give the service, but has the advantage of more moderate cost.

Skiing a Fine Art
Ski making is a fine art, and all high quality, well-matched, well-balanced skis are, aside from the roughest shaping, hand made and finished, and the pairs are made, matched, and weighed to an exactitude that they may run parallel and with the least expenditure of effort on the part of the user. To accomplish this, only woods with the grain right and of the right quality otherwise can be used. The model, the balance, and the finish have a greater bearing upon their easy running qualities than the variety of wood from which they are made.

There are two types of binding in use and several styles of each type from which to choose. One is the standard screw-applied, the other is designed for mortised skis. The style of either type is a matter of choice for the user. Yellow pine skis usually come mortised; those of other woods are not commonly mortised, unless so ordered.

The waxing and care of skis is a matter of importance. Before applying wax, the running surface should first be prepared with a coat of waterproofing. Both wax and waterproofing compounds are to be had ready-prepared from dealers. After waterproofing a suitable surface wax should be applied. Detailed instructions for its application

Wega Invades Manawa and Amherst Goes to Iola High
Manawa—Marion, Manawa, and Waupaca high schools were returned winners in the opening games of the Central Wisconsin conference last Friday evening. Marion romped over Weyauwega 32 to 13, despite the loss of its star guard, Jumbo Eland, who is ill with scarlet fever. Manawa outlasted Iola 19 to 15, and Waupaca was hard put to escape with a one point victory over Amherst 30 to 29.

Two games are scheduled for this Friday night, with Weyauwega invading Manawa and Amherst traveling to Iola. Marion will meet Wausau of the Wisconsin Valley conference on the Marion floor, while Waupaca is idle because its coach, Aure "Stretch" Vander Meulen, will be away on an eastern trip with the Oshkosh All-Stars.

Standings of the Central Wisconsin conference are as follows:
W. L. Pct.
Manawa 1 0 1.000
Waupaca 1 0 1.000
Marion 1 0 1.000

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Clintonville at West DePere.
Kaukauna at Shawano.
New London at Menasha.
Menasha St. Mary at Neenah.

New London—Coach Stacy gave his "A" squad eagles a tough workout last night when alumni players now on city teams were invited in for a practice scrimmage at Washington High school gym. The varsity was up against stiff competition in the size and experience of the former high school stars.

Most of the alumni were members of Mike's Tavern cage team. Some of the fellows faced by the Stacy men were Tip Krohn, Pete Westphal, Bob Krause, Vernon Brun, Vernon Dobberstein, Dave Freiburgh, Harold Kitowski and Bob Ullrich.

Seeking a fast-breaking combination in his new squad, Coach Stacy has been experimenting, the past week. Douglas Hofer has been tried with success at the guard post with Stewart Hammeberg and Don Stern at forward with Bernie Stern, Jim Mesnick, center, and Francis Meinhardt and Lee Smith have been juggled around and on occasions members of the "B" squad have been taken in with the regulars for a trial.

Results of the combinations may be apparent in Friday's game at Menasha and another at Neenah Tuesday, after which the squad will have several weeks to prepare for a series of home conference tilts after the holiday vacations.

Shawano — Apparently disgruntled with the poor showing made by the high-riding Indians against the Neenah Red Rockets last week, Coach Dills has been working the team behind closed doors in preparation for Friday's game with Kaukauna.

Although the Indians floundered through for an 18 to 15 win over the Neenah five for their fifth straight victory, the brand of basketball displayed was not the type that warms the cockles of a coach's heart. Slipshod passing, heads in the clouds, and poor teamwork were the order of the night and the team is being worked hard to present a different style of play against the Electric City five.

With a third of the season gone and 25 per cent of the scheduled Northeastern Wisconsin conference games successfully out of the way, the Indians are expected to drive on through to a conference championship. According to advance dope on the season's contenders, Neenah and West De Pere were regarded by the strongest challengers for the Shawano crown. Neenah took the Phantoms into camp by a close score and on a basis of comparative points, the three teams are fairly evenly bunched.

River Falls Defeated
In Last Minute of Play
River Falls, Wis. — Sinking two free throws in the last minute of play, MacAlester college of St. Paul beat the River Falls Teachers, 30 to 37, in a basketball game here last night.

Noyes, MacAlester center, dropped in both charity throws after he was fouled shortly before the final gun. River Falls had a 19 to 12 half-time lead.

Koch, MacAlester forward, made 10 points for the winners, while Blank and Randall, forwards, shared honors with 11 points each for River Falls.

Greenleaf Wins First
Match Against Crane
New York — Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiards champion, and also a champion worrier, was feeling a little easier today as he met young Irving Crane of Rochester, who is challenging him for the title.

Greenleaf has won 15 times in the second block of their 1,500 point match. The champion trounced the upstate youngster, 125 to 1, in the first block of the match last night.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

By L.H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY—In the early part of November a certain tavern keeper near the center of the northern resort region was caught red-handed with venison he had purchased. The game warden in the case had been after this violator for a long time and the arrest came as the result of much hard work. When the case came up for trial the district attorney showed little or no interest in the prosecution, he called none of the state's witnesses and it was plain that he did not want a conviction. The case was lost.

When a man of that type is elected to any county judicial or executive office fish and game law violations soon become very numerous and the game warden can do little about it. After he loses a few cases where he has spent weeks in catching the violators only to see them go free because the court or the

Vernon Gomez Ranked No. 1 Comeback Star in Athletics

Note: This is the fourth of a series analyzing the annual Associated Press sports poll. It covers replies to the query on the year's leading individual come-backs)

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK — (7) — Hero of the year's outstanding individual come-back in any sport, by expert vote, is Vernon Gomez, slender southpaw of the World Champion Yankees, who took a big salary cut last winter and then proceeded to recapture No. 1 hurling effectiveness among American league pitchers.

Gomez, who climaxed the end of a two-year slump by standing the Giants on their ears twice in the World series, gained a decisive margin over all rivals in the seventh annual poll of leading sports writers by the Associated Press.

The tally today showed 19 first place votes for Gomez and a point total of 69, calculated on a 3-2-1 basis for the trio of come-back choices posted by each contributing expert. A total of 53 writers balloted.

Guldahl Honor

Ralph Guldahl, who topped off a wonderful golfing comeback by capturing the United States open championship, beat heavyweight champion Joe Louis for runner-up honors. Guldahl collected nine first-place votes and outpointed Louis, 40 to 34. Louis got support for rise to title heights after being knocked out the year before by Max Schmeling, the 1936 winner of the comeback poll.

Five Man Line an Old Dodge With a New Name, Coaches Admit

BY BILL BONI

NEW YORK — (7) — The five-man line, hailed as football's most startling innovation since the boys shaved off their handle-bar mustaches, really is nothing more than an old dodge decked out in a fancy name.

That may come as a shock to a lot of people who have been worshipping over what will be done about it. But the coaches — and they're the ones who should know — are authority for the fact that the five-man line is no newer than knobs on doors, if as new.

In the Southwest conference they claim to have used it twenty years ago. Tatum Gressette of the Citadel in South Carolina is hailed as its southern sponsor, with the date of origin six years ago. Mal Stevens of N.Y.U. recalls that Pop Warner employed it at Stanford long before Pop came east to Temple in 1933.

"Why, say," says Lou Little of Columbia, "I've heard of teams using the five-man line as far back as 1904 and 1905. We used it in pro ball when I was playing in 1919 and 1920, and I even coached it at Georgetown in 1924."

"Only in those days no one bothered to label it. We just played a six-man line and dropped one man out of the middle when we were expecting a pass. The reason everybody's talking about it now as if it were something new is because it's had such a spread in the last two years."

Makes No Claim
Even Steve Owen, whose New York Giants tossed quite a bombshell into National Football league circles this season by breaking out the "new" defensive maneuver, makes no claims as an inventor. Stout Steve splits the credit between John Dargosa, Temple assistant coach in the pre-Warner days, and the fact that this year he had two converted centers, Kayo Lunday and Johnny Del Isola, playing at guard and able to drop out of the line.

"Dargosa had experimented with the formation for several years before he gave it to us," Owen explains. "The first time we tried it was against the Chicago Bears three or four years ago. Hank Reese was with us then, and I used him to back up the middle of the line. The Bears' first play was a line back by Bronko Nagurski. Hank came up to meet the 256-pound Bronko, was knocked flat and trampled on. Nagurski went for nine yards. Reese went out of the game, and from then until this year I didn't have any men who were either willing or able to back up the five-man line."

The formation's greatest asset, in the opinion of some of its chief sponsors — Little, Owen, Hooks Mylin, of all-winning Lafayette, and Frank Thomas of Alabama's Rose-bowlers, is that it confuses offensive linemen on their blocking assignments.

Actor Offers $5,000
Purse for Tournament
Los Angeles — (7) — Actor Richard Arlen came to the rescue of the 13-year-old Los Angeles open golf tournament today with an offer to guarantee the purse up to $5,000.

"If anybody wants to add to that, very well, but if the boys will be willing to shoot for $5,000, I will have that much ready for them," Arlen said.

The junior chamber of commerce dropped the tournament, originally scheduled for $8,000, from the California winter golf program Tuesday because of failure to find a backer.

Kaukauna Welfare Groups Preparing Christmas Gifts

Kaukauna — With Christmas only eight days away, welfare groups in Kaukauna are making plans for the annual distribution of gifts to the needy. A meeting attended by representatives of all Kaukauna fraternal, civic and other organizations which annually participate in the distribution of Christmas cheer was held last week, with Mrs. Kate Specht being chosen chairman of the Kaukauna Good Cheer committee. Blanche Gerend was named secretary-treasurer of the committee. Mrs. Specht succeeds Miss Cecil Flynn, city nurse, chairman of the committee during the last seven years, and Miss Gerend succeeds Mrs. Herbert Specht.

Last year a total of 118 baskets were given to the needy of Kaukauna. A need for from 150 to 200 baskets for this year was estimated at the committee's last meeting. A balance of $39.28 remains from last year's project, and the money will be used this year.

The first contribution to the Christmas Cheer fund was received from the Knights of Columbus Ladies. Other groups who have so far contributed a total of $60 are the American Legion Auxiliary, the Ladies Aid of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, the Royal Neighbors of America, the Kaukauna Business and Professional Woman's club, the Kaukauna Lions club, and the Kaukauna Knights of Columbus.

Checks to be donated to the fund may be mailed to Miss Blanche Gerend, with individual contributions welcomed as well as those of organizations.

Avoid Duplication Although the Christmas committee will contribute baskets to all parts of the city, several organizations and churches are planning to distribute baskets to their own members. Persons in charge of this work are being asked to submit lists of the names they will distribute to, so that there will be no duplications, to Mrs. Kate Specht. In other years some of the needy families of the city have received as many as three and four baskets because of this duplication. Several organizations about the city are also collecting toys for distribution to the needy. Those having toys they wish to give are asked to contact Mrs. Specht or Miss Gerend. The toys are repainted of the Kaukauna Vocational school, under the direction of William T. Sullivan, director. A final meeting of the committee will be held at 7:30 Christmas Eve, in the council rooms of the municipal building. A representative of each church, civic, fraternal or any other organization is invited to attend, with final plans for the distribution of baskets to be made.

Benefit Shows Benefit shows by the Rialto and Vaudeville theaters to aid the Christmas good cheer project were sponsored this week. The Rialto theater sponsored a show at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the Vaudeville gave a performance at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The price of admission in both cases was an article for inclusion in the baskets which will be distributed at Christmas. The Catholic Youth Council of St. Mary's church donated ten prizes which were given away at the Vaudeville performance. The Catholic Youth Organizations of the city have also taken charge of the distribution of all the baskets in Kaukauna. A committee appointed Monday evening to care for the distribution is composed of Marcus Nigl, chairman, Dorothy Timmers, Joan Mayer, Mildred Hubeny, Robert Nagan and Harvey Smith.

State Refuses to Build Windbreak

Commission Reports It's Against Policy to Permit Such Structures

Kaukauna—Kaukauna will have no windbreak on the Lawe street bridge this winter. This was settled when Attorney Harry F. McAndrews received a letter from the Wisconsin Highway Commission in answer to one from the city, asking, first, if the state would construct a windbreak, and second, if they would give Kaukauna permission to build one. The state replied they would not erect one, and stated it was against their established policy to build or permit to be built windbreaks on any state operated bridge.

The question of a windbreak for the Lawe street bridge first arose several weeks ago when petitions asking for the structure were circulated about town and given to City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel, who in turn read them to the council. The council debated the request, and decided, on account of the city's poor financial condition, not to erect the windbreak with city funds.

Mayor Lewis F. Nelson, was empowered, however, to appoint a committee of citizens and councilmen to see if the windbreak might not be built by public subscription. Appointment of the committee had been withheld pending answer to McAndrews' letter to the highway department. While it had been expected that the department would not construct the windbreak for the city, their refusal to allow the city to build it was somewhat of a surprise.

Erect Crib Scene With Eight Figures

Depicting Nativity

Kaukauna—A crib depicting the Nativity is being erected this week on the lot between the public library and the power canal. The project is sponsored by the Lady Knights of Columbus in cooperation with other societies and organizations of the city.

The crib will contain eight life size figures, and the stable will be constructed of logs and surrounded by trees and brush. Illumination for the crib will be provided by the Kaukauna electrical department.

Actual construction of the crib is in charge of a committee of Knights of Columbus members. They are George R. Greenwood, Joseph Schmidt, Emil Franz, Ireanus Robedeaux, John Corcoran and Barney Lamers.

Caroling will be continued at the crib by various church groups during the Christmas season. The Catholic Youth Organizations of Holy Cross and St. Mary's churches will meet and sing at the crib on Wednesday evenings, Dec. 22. Any other groups wishing to carol are asked to get in touch with Mrs. George R. Greenwood, with each group being permitted as much time as they wish.

Fire Chief Warns About Hazards of Christmas Season

Kaukauna — Kaukauna residents were warned today against fire hazards and accidents more prevalent at Christmas than at other times by Henry Esler, fire chief. "Many decorations used during the holidays present extraordinary fire risks," Chief Esler said. "Special care should be given to decorations made of paper, celluloid, cotton and silk." Esler continued, "as they are easily ignited by careless smokers. Children should never be left in the house alone, as matches are not always beyond their reach."

Esler recommended that toys be bought which are not of a combustible nature, and warned against smoking in business places with stores of combustible materials, such as boxes, paper and excelsior.

Dramatics Class To Give Play for School Assembly

12 Students in Cast of 'Santa Claus and The Madonna'

New London—Twelve students of H. H. Brockhaus' dramatics class will present a 1-act Christmas play, "Santa Claus and the Madonna," at a 3:15 assembly program at Washington high school auditorium Friday afternoon.

The cast will include four boys of the Lincoln Junior high school. The mixed choir will add to the program with several selections.

The scene of the play centers around a large department store in Bethlehem, Pa., and the story derives much of its Christmas atmosphere from the reference to cities with bible names in that section of Pennsylvania.

The plot concerns a young man and his wife who have separated but who are reunited when they each unknowingly become a part of a living Christmas window display. The story is dramatic and involves trick staging.

Ethel Knapstein as a cash girl in the store becomes the Madonna of the display and Howard Fox as one of the unemployed takes the part of Santa Claus in the window.

Other characters cast are Richard Salter as an advertising manager; Lois Steninger as his secretary; Robert Hutchinson as a window dresser; Helena Wonnell as a factory girl; Marjorie Lathrop, her friend; Richard Demming, another store owner; Richard Wyman, his window dresser; Marie Garrow, a shopper; Gene Wyman, her son; Dawn Harris, the shopper's friend; Harry Herres, store physician.

Three newboys promading the street in front of the store will be acted by George Smith, Hogan Johnson and James Christensen of the junior high school. Gene Wyman also is from the junior high.

Manawa—Everything is in readiness for the arrival of Santa Claus at the Christmas party in Manawa to be sponsored by the local Lions club and other business men on Saturday.

Santa Claus is going to pay Manawa a special visit Saturday, dressed in his brilliant costume of scarlet and fur. Many hundreds of bags of candy, nuts, and popcorn balls will be given to all youngsters of grade school age who visit Manawa in the afternoon. It will be the first gift of the season for most youngsters, and probably the only one delivered directly by Santa himself.

Through the cooperation of Manawa business men arrangements have been made for a free show on Saturday afternoon. There will be a feature picture and a comedy cartoon. The first show will begin at 12:45 and when the theater is filled the doors will be closed. Santa Claus will make his appearance on the streets immediately following the show, probably at 2:15. Lions Hear Talk On War in Orient

History Teacher Is Speaker At Meeting of Clintonville Club

Clintonville—Melvin Bartz, history teacher and debate coach at Clintonville High school, talked on the Chinese-Japanese situation to the Lions at their weekly dinner Tuesday evening at Hotel Marson. The Lions are arranging a large Christmas party for children Thursday evening, Dec. 23. They expect to have Santa Claus make a personal appearance here that evening to distribute a thousand sacks of candy to the youngsters. The festivities will take place at the Congregational church corner, where the Lions club has erected a large community Christmas tree, as has been the custom for a number of years.

The Four Wheel Drive Girls' club held a Christmas party Tuesday evening at the Ward hotel. A 6:30 dinner was served to 24 members, after which games provided amusement. Prizes at hearts went to Miss Grace Pichl and Miss Irene Zehrer, while the prizes in other games were won by Miss Helen Weller, Miss Norcen Tanner, Mrs. Arnold Schroeder and Mrs. Ethel Chandler. There was a Christmas tree and gifts were exchanged. The party was arranged by a committee including the Misses Lulu Freborn, Lois Jahneke, Thomas Han Hosen, Joyce Meyer and Ellsworth Juse. An original poem will then be recited by Kenneth Guerke.

An original play, "The First Christmas," by Mildred Schidt will be dramatized by Lillian Sylvester, Donald Jury, Mary Trautman, Robert Kamp, Robert Johnson, Bessie Blacher, Joyce Meyer, Donald Williams, Ellsworth Juse, Verna Radtke, Clifford Banks, Ruth Brecklin, Lois Helsner, Jean Steffen and Earl Zwicker. Following the program, gifts will be exchanged and carols will be sung.

Games to Follow Program

A cast of five members of the 8X home room will present a play entitled "Holy Night," as part of the program Friday. Cast will include Grace Slattery, Marce Sylvester, Robert Yahr, Bernice Saiberlich and John Mielke. Games will be played after the program.

A Christmas spell-down will be conducted in the 92 home room Friday. Pupils participating will try to see how many words can be made out of the letters in "Merry Christmas."

"Entertaining Sister's Beau," a 1-act play, will be given in the 9X home room. The cast includes Genevieve Rath, Marian Welland and Arlon Mader. Games including "Duck for the Apple" and "Find the Letters," also will be played.

In the 7Y home room at the school, a Christmas story, "Little Jean," will be told by Mary McCarter and the group will sing carols.

Pupils of Roland Schulz' metal working class have made table lamps from metal for the Christmas gifts.

M.G.M. NEWS EVENTS

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

The 150th anniversary of the first colonists' arrival in New South Wales falls in January. Australia is commemorating the event with three stamps, which appeared October 2.

The story goes back to May, 1788, when Capt. Arthur Phillip set sail from Plymouth in the Sirius, with a fleet of 10 ships, carrying more than a thousand people, including 756 convicts. There were six transports, three store ships and an armed trader. In the company were 40 women, five doctors and 200 marines. The store ships carried cows, horses, sheep, goats, pigs, fowl and seeds of all kinds.

After an eight-month voyage, the fleet reached its destination, Botany Bay. The natives fortunately felt friendly, and tossed aside their weapons to show it.

Captain Phillip decided the bay wouldn't do, so he sailed on to Port Jackson, near Sydney's present site. There he selected a landing cove and named it for the British home secretary, Lord Sydney. A few days later the flag was planted, the colony proclaimed and Phillip named the first governor of what became New South Wales.

The design of the new stamps (2-penny red, 3-penny ultramarine, 9-penny violet) shows a group of British naval officers in a grove of trees, with the inlet and three ships in the background. The inscription reads: "Governor Phillip at Sydney Cove, 1788 — 150th Anniversary."

Philately At College. Filatelikus, the Columbia university stamp club, is sponsoring a permanent Nicholas Murray Butler trophy to be awarded for the best frame of stamps showing original research exhibited at the Annual Intercollegiate Philatelic exhibition (February 23-26, at Columbia).

Universities now offering extension courses in philately are Harvard, Temple and Minnesota. The adult (night) school of South Orange, N. J., has added a similar course to its curriculum.

governor of the colony which until then had been administered as part of Senegal.

Now Ivory Coast has issued a handsomely engraved 65-centime stamp in red brown to commemorate the 50th anniversary of Binger's march through the jungle. The design shows a head of the captain, right, with natives and a hut, left. Below is the line, "L. Binger—1856-1936."

Clifford Hatch was named vice president and John Younger secretary-treasurer. The next meeting of the club will be Dec. 29.

Treat Coal Gas Victim at Neenah

Miss Anita Porath, One of Family Overcome, Enters Hospital

Neenah—Miss Anita Porath, 18, daughter of Otto Porath, 220 N. Lake street, who with her mother and father, was overcome by coal gas from a furnace Tuesday morning, entered Theda Clark Memorial hospital Wednesday for treatment.

Miss Porath's mother died from the effects of the gas Tuesday morning. Firemen applied artificial respiration with an inhalator and Mrs. Porath was placed in the "iron lung" at Theda Clark hospital but efforts to resuscitate her were futile.

The Poraths were found about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the gas filled home by Mrs. Arthur Lloyd, a neighbor, who, becoming alarmed over the inactivity about the home, investigated. When she entered the home, Anita had collapsed on the kitchen floor, having made her way there from her upstairs bedroom. Mr. and Mrs. Porath occupied a bedroom on the first floor. Mr. Porath was overcome but recovered when the home was cleared of the gas fumes.

Menasha Children Get Candy From Santa Claus

Menasha—Santa Claus, distributed packages of candy to nearly 100 Menasha youngsters yesterday afternoon around the Christmas tree at the city office. Because his supply was not exhausted in his first visit, he will return again this afternoon.

Mayor W. E. Held; Walter J. Dougherty, city clerk; C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer; Harold Berro, water and light cashier; Ted Beach, bookkeeper; Edward McKenzie, city attorney; and Pete Kaseel, street department superintendent, formed the committee in charge of the visits by Santa Claus.

Twin City Births

A son was born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Levandowski, 913 Seventh street, Menasha, at Theda Clark hospital.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent and advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or may be telephoned. This number also may be called before 7 o'clock in the evening for delivery of papers missed by carriers in Neenah or Menasha.

Lutheran School Pupils Will Give Program at Church

Neenah—Children of Trinity Lutheran school will present a program at 7 o'clock Christmas eve in the Trinity Lutheran church under the direction of William Heller, principal.

The theme of the program will be "The Sabbath." The children will be assisted by the choir and the congregation will join both the children and the choir in singing Christmas carols.

The choir will sing Christmas carols for a half hour preceding the program. The program will open with a procession, the choir and congregation singing, "Come Hither Ye Children," as the children march into the church. "Beautiful Savior" will be the opening hymn.

The children will be divided into groups, each group reciting scriptural phrases, one group responding to the other. Hymns will be interspersed, each hymn corresponding to the scriptural phrases.

Bluejays Tangle With New London Friday Evening

Preliminary Game to Precede Northeastern Wisconsin Circuit Tilt

Menasha—The Bluejays will close their pre-holiday basketball schedule Friday evening at Butte des Morts gym when New London comes here for a Northeastern Wisconsin conference game. The game will be called at 8 o'clock and will be preceded by a "B" team game between the two schools at 7 o'clock. Officials for the conference game will be Lester Wilke and Robert Kolf.

A pep assembly by Menasha high school students to cheer the team on for its game will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Brien theater. New London is one of Menasha's closest rivals and the Bluejays will want to defend their share of the league lead against the invaders. Tickets for the game are on sale at the high school office in the post office building.

Coach N. A. Calder probably will probably stick to his pony lineup to start the New London game. That will include Landskron and Schneider at forwards, Zelinske at center, Resch and DuCharme at guards. That group is somewhat stronger defensively than the combination with Earl Block and Leo Osiewalski. Those two, with Heiss, have the advantage of height and undoubtedly will get into action. New London has several veterans back and the entire "B" squad from last year. That "B" squad broke even with Menasha "Bs" in two hard-fought games. The Menasha "B" group of last year now composes most of the varsity. A close game can be expected even though New London has dropped games to two of the strong teams of the conference, Neenah and West DePere. Menasha fattened its standing with an easy victory over Clintonville and pleasing triumph over Kaukauna.

Two's Company

By MARGARET CUION HERZOG

The Characters

Nina impulsively married David and is trying to forget her intense love for her stepfather.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, shamelessly talks of love to Nina.

Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is wild about Richard, her newly acquired husband.

David, a bright young auto salesman, adores Nina and strives to make her happy on his small salary.

Chapter 26

Encounter With Richard

"I happen to know that Chatterbox hasn't a cent over $3,000 a year," Tony was saying. "I also happen to know that two of his bills last year, in London—a tailor on Bond Street, and a sporting goods store—amounted to exactly that figure."

Three thousand dollars! And Honey's meagre cost her at least $20,000 a year. . . .

Her mother had said, that day in the blue and white room: "Richard is perfectly sensible and broad-minded about letting me share expenses. . . . But according to Tony's figures, 'sharing' was hardly the right word, was it?"

Tony went on: "Now mind you, I don't say he doesn't pay his bills, and I don't say he procures an additional income, by any shady means. I simply say that he spends every cent on his back and for his own personal amusement. . . . and lets his numerous friends (and now, probably, his wife) look after his living expenses."

Nina did, actually, feel a little shocked; but she managed to persuade herself that the standard David had taught her, that had seemed only self-respecting and right in his case, did not apply to Richard at all. And the very fact that she was head over heels in love with him, kept her from realizing that it was love coloring her judgment.

Well, that was that.

Nina went on up to her room, and devoted every ounce of her considerable skill, to making herself look as lovely as possible for the evening.

She came hurrying down the great stairway, in little skips. Her leaved green evening dress was of silk net, with taffeta polka dots appliqued onto it in charming profusion. It floated after her like a foamy wave, trying to catch up with her; and her fair curls bobbed up, and then bobbed back into place again, like the good little curls they were.

"Nina. . . ." It was a low murmur.

At the curve of the landing, Richard was waiting for her. . . . loitering at the window, with a cigarette in his hand, so as not to attract notice.

"Nina. . . ." again. He stepped in.

New York—(U)—Stocks sailed on a rising tide in today's market, but gains running to 4 or more points were substantially reduced in the final hour.

Industrials, led by steels, were well out in front most of the time. Dealings were comparatively slow after a moderately fast opening.

Profit taking flurries frequently impeded the forward tilt and these were more noticeable as the session neared the end.

Transfers were around 1,000,000 shares.

Prominent stocks on the upside the greater part of the day included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Inland Steel, Crucible, Westinghouse, Amerasia, Texas Corp., Standard Oil of N. J., Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Anaconda, National Lead, Union Carbide, American Tobacco, R. H. Allen, C. I. American Smelting, Owens-Illinois and Liggett and Myers. "B." gold mining issues were on the popular side with Dome edging into new high ground for the year.

Today's Market At a Glance

New York — (U) — Stocks firm; late selling cuts gains. Bonds higher; secondary rails spurt. Curb firm; rallying tendencies rule. Foreign exchange steady; changes narrow. Cotton steady; domestic and foreign sugar buying. Coffee lower; Brazilian selling. Chicago — Wheat lower; increased liquidating sales. Corn easy; lessened export demand. Cattle dull, steady. Hogs 25 lower.

Cheerful Outlook Lays Foundation for Rallyes

New York — (U) — An advance in bonds gathered strength all along the line in late trading today and gains of fractions to two points were numerous.

Buying, encouraged by signs of a pickup in some industries and year-end rallying tendencies in other markets, broadened out in corporate and foreign issues.

Secondary rails stood out, with Allegheny 5s of 1949, Illinois Central 4 1/2s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Southern Railway 4s showing gains ranging to more than a point.

Most U. S. Government issues also were a little higher.

New York Curb Stocks In Fractional Gains

New York — (U) — Moderate demand lifted most stocks fractionally to more than a point on the curb exchange today and gains generally were sustained in late trading.

Utilities as well as industrials enjoyed more favor as traders played for a year-end rally.

Prominent among the gainers were Aluminum of America, American Light and Traction, Electric Bond and Share, Gulf Oil, Niagara Hudson, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Brazilian Traction.

CONDITION OF TREASURY

Wheat Quotations Tumble 2 Cents on Market at Chicago

Fractional Advances Fail to Hold Against Liquidating Sales

Chicago — (U) — Approximately 2 cents tumble of wheat prices took place late today, largely because of increased liquidating sales on the part of recent speculative buyers.

Transient fractional advances of wheat values failed to hold, despite North American export purchases totaling 500,000 bushels. Russian shipments of more than 1,000,000 bushels and prospects of larger clearances from Argentina were believed factors, together with fast disappearance of ice in domestic winter wheat areas.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1 1/2-1 3/4 under yesterday's finish May 91-91 1/4, July 85 1/4, corn 1 1/2 down, May 59 1/4, July 59 1/4, and oats unchanged.

Woolworth Employees Strike for More Pay

New York — (U) — Employees of three Woolworth 5-and-10-cent stores went on strike today following a breakdown of negotiations between union representatives and the company for higher wages and shorter hours.

Miss Clara Michelson, organizer for the department stores employees union, said about 180 persons quit work.

Union officials had hoped to confer with Countess Haugwitz Reventlow, the former Barbara Hut-ton, regarding the strike, but she was on the high seas bound for Europe. She left unexpectedly last night, just one day after arriving. The countess inherited her wealth from the Woolworth store fortune.

The Woolworth employees seek a $21 a week minimum weekly wage and a 40-hour week.

Miss Michelson said the average weekly wage now is $15.60.
